U.S. Scores Big Point In Space Race

Early Trackings Indicate Probe Functioning Well

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The United States scoring a big point in the space contest with the Soviet Union Friday shot a beachball - size sphereload of instruments into an orbit calculated to carry it closer to the sun than man ever has probed before.

The 948-pound space probe, given the name Pioneer V, sped aloft just after 8 a.m. Eastern Standard Time from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in the nose of a powerful Thor-Able rocket whose three stages fired, one after another, with clocklike precision.

At 4:05 p.m. EST, eight hours after it roared away from the cape, the miniature planet was reported to be 75,350 miles from the earth.

SLOWED

It had moved to about 8,000 miles an hour from the maximum velocity of 24,869 miles an hour with which it escaped the earth's gravitational field.

This compared with a speed of 9,150 miles an hour at noon EST, when it was 42,000 miles from the earth and over West Africa.

The elated scientists proclaimed it successfully on its way into what they said was the broadest study yet undertaken of space mysteries.

Early tracking information indicated Pioneer was functioning normally, without any tumbling or wobbling. Its radio equipment,

Dixie Courts Take Action In Race Riots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Courts in several Southern cities Friday convicted a number of negroes for taking part in demonstrations as the wave of discontent over segregated lunch counters appeared to be declining.

Negro students at Columbia, S.C., canceled plans for a march to the South Carolina State House Saturday. But a spokesman said "we will be back."

At New Orleans, the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the Dallas, Tex., school board to submit a plan to desegregate its public schools within 51 days.

City Court at Montgomery, Ala., convicted 32 Negro college students, a former classmate and a woman faculty member of charges growing out of an anti-segregation demonstration Tuesday.

GUARD

A heavy police guard stood by to prevent any demonstrations at City Hall while the trial was in progress.

The 32 students at Alabama State College at Montgomery were convicted of disorderly conduct and refusal to obey an officer. So was the former student tried with them.

Judge Eugene Loe delayed sentencing. Those convicted could receive six months in jail and a $100 fine on each of the two counts. The faculty member was convict-

Snowstorm Sweeps Into Southland

Hinders Teams In Attempt To Rescue Families

By The Associated Press

A high-speed snowstorm swept out of the Midwest and into the South Friday, hobbling rescuers striving to reach hundreds of isolated families.

The storm eased up during the day along the Ohio Valley but poured it on Georgia and the Carolinas before heading out to sea.

Record cold froze many cities in the Northeast.

Georgia's worst March snowstorm rolled into the state while thunder rumbled and lightning flashed. It left 4 to 8 inches of snow from Atlanta and Augusta to the northern border.

Hundreds of cars stalled on Atlanta streets. Schools, banks, stores and other businesses closed. The rough weather added new damage to the estimated 40-million-dollar loss in the recent onslaught of snow and sleet.

RESCUE

The new snow hampered rescue workers trying to reach families in Ashe, Watauga, Avery, Alleghany and Wilkes counties in North Carolina.

Some of the families, marooned in homes surrounded by 2 and 3 feet of snow, have not had food or fuel deliveries in three weeks.

Women in West Jefferson, N.C. helped Red Cross workers prepare food packages to be dropped from helicopters to families in need.

Bowling Green, Ky., staggered under the impact of its second heavy snowfall within three days. More than 4 inches topped Wednesday's 23.9-inch accumulation.

West To Ask Reds' Aid In Arms Group

Plan Would Provide For 3-Step Program

PARIS (UPI)—The West will ask Russia to join in the creation of an International Disarmament Organization (IDO) that will direct and supervise world-wide disarmament, diplomatic sources disclosed Friday.

The plan to preservve peace through a three-step disarmament program was worked out by representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy at a three-day meeting here. It will be presented in Geneva next week to Russia and four other Communist countries.

The ambitious plan calls for an early end to nuclear arms as demanded by France. France was particularly pleased with the completed plan and officials said it was even more satisfactory than we had hoped."

PLEASED

President Charles de Gaulle was reported especially pleased with the Western plan since the French view was that the French negotiators largely had won the day on the issue of banning nuclear weapons.

Frederick M. Eaton, head of the American delegation to the Geneva disarmament talks, arrived in Geneva Friday from Paris and said the Western plan for the 10 nation disarmament conference was solid and "extremely satisfactory."

"We have come to Geneva with a heavy responsibility," Eaton said. "I am glad to say we arrive here with a solid allied position. . . I firmly believe we can reach a plan for general disarmament in the world for peace and under law."

Diplomatic sources outlined these three phases of the disarmament plan:

1. The first step would be the creation of the International Disarmament Organization. IDO would compile armament reports, set troop ceilings and take over and control armaments from signatory nations. It would be notified in advance of plans to launch space satellites.

School Bill Portion Is Knocked Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate blasted a whole section out of the Eisenhower administration's civil rights program Friday after Southern members helped set it up for the kill.

By a 49-35 vote the Senate stripped the seven-point administration bill of its first section, an outgrowth of the Little Rock, Ark. disorders of 1957. It then recessed until Monday, when the battle will be resumed.

Section I of the bill sponsored by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois would have made it a federal crime to interfere with federal court orders in school desegregation cases.

It was knocked out on motion of Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) after it had been broadened to include labor case injunctions and all other federal court orders.

CLIMAX

The voting climaxed a day-long debate on the move by Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) to widen the provision over the strenuous objections of Dirksen.

Southern opponents of civil rights legislation, who protested that Section I was aimed solely at their part of the country, supported the Lausche amendment and it carried on a 65-19 roll-call vote.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa) denounced the amendment off the floor as an "antilabor move." He told a reporter it was an attempt to "clutter up" the school integration section.

Lausche contended the first part of the administraiton bill tended to divide the country.

"It has the indefensible weakness of speaking to the people in one section of the country, of telling them we are going to make special laws for them," he said.

Payola File Information Is Quashed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) Friday cut off other members of his House payola investigating subcommittee from all information on the group's investigation of Disc jockey Dick Clark.

Harris' action was regarded as an implied rebuke to Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich), who disclosed to reporters Thursday certain information on the activities of the Philadelphia disc jockey.

Bennett, however, promptly denied that his information came from the subcommittee's files. He didn't say where he did get it.

"I haven't seen the subcommittee's files and I haven't requested anything from them," Bennett told a reporter.

URGING

Bennett, who has been urging that Clark be summoned as an early subcommittee witness, said he hadn't seen a copy of Harris' new orders.

Harris issued the order cutting off information to his fellow members in a memorandum to Robert W. Lishman, chief counsel of the House Legislative oversight subcommittee.

"I have theretofore made it inexorably clear," Harris said in the memo, "that during the course of investigating any problem that . . . no information obtained by the subcommittee staff shall be made public."

The memo added, however, that it has been Harris' policy to make available to any subcommittee member any material in the files "for personal use and information."

He added that in the light of recent disclosures this policy was being reversed.

To avoid information "being made available prematurely to public," Harris directed that "no one may have access to the files or any information contained therein except members of the staff who you assign to this case."

Harris made no mention of Bennett in the memorandum.

Lanza Widow Found Dead At Her Home

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) —Betty Lanza, the widow of singer Mario Lanza, was found dead in bed Friday at her home, police reported.

Police Capt. Paul Smith said a maid found the body in late afternoon. Mrs. Lanza was dressed in a negligee, Smith said, and there was no sign of foul play.

Smith said cause of the death of the 37-year-old widow of the stormy tenor was still under investigation.

Lanza died of a heart attack in Rome last Oct. 7.

Thus within five months death has claimed both principals in a romance that began during World War II when Lanza was touring in the Army show "Winged Victory."

BROTHER

Mrs. Lanza's brother, actor Bert Hicks, was in the show and he introduced the ambitious young tenor from New York to his sister.

There were four children from the marriage—Colleen, 10, Elisa, 8, Damon, 6 and Mark, 4.

Mrs. Lanza's physician, Dr. Morris Wilburne, said, "The cause of death is undetermined but apparently it was from natural causes. I would rather wait for the coroner to make a final decision."

The doctor said Mrs. Lanza's maid called him when she was unable to awaken her mistress.

"The police rescue squad was already working on Mrs. Lanza when I arrived," Dr. Wilburne said. "I saw immediately that she had been dead for some time.

"There was nothing to indicate

Finch-Tregoff Jury Continues Deliberations

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Finch-Tregoff murder trial jury went into a second week of deliberations Friday with no sign it was even near a verdict.

The courtroom was almost filled with spectators in anticipation of the jurors coming in Friday, and a crowd of more than 200 assembled on the sidewalk as Dr. R. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff came out of the courthouse en route to lunch in jail.

Another large crowd watched the jurors leave by another exit. Only one or two were smiling in contrast to almost gay behavior early in the week.

BELIEF

The belief was growing that this may be a hung jury on at least one defendant, resulting in another entire trial.

Judge Walter Evans had not yet suggested night sessions nor called jurors in to ask them how they were coming in their deliberations. They will deliberate Saturday but have a break on Sunday, although still in custody of bailiffs, if a verdict is not reached by then.

Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, are accused of murder and conspiracy to murder in the July 18, 1959, shooting of the surgeon's wife, Barbara Jean.

Cuba Seizes U. S. Mills

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba's revolutionary government Friday seized three U.S.-owned sugar mills worth an estimated 10 million dollars.

In reporting the takeover, the newspaper Revolucion said workers at the three mills "have always been victims of exploitation of Yankee functionaries who always maintained close relations with (ex-dictator Fulgencio) Batista's officials."

New Delay Noted For Mine Rescue

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI)—A snag developed Friday in revising a ventilation system and created a new delay in efforts to reach 18 miners trapped for the fourth day in a fire-ravaged mine near here.

"There was actually more work entailed in setting up the system than I had been apprised of," Raymond Salvatti, president of the Island Creek Coal Co. informed newsmen shortly before 3 p.m.

"However, we should have the ventilation problem completed at any moment and then we can go ahead," he added reassuringly.

MAPS

Salvatti and other officials had been pouring over maps of the Holden No. 22 mine where the men have been trapped since 8:30 a.m. e.s.t. Tuesday.

Shortly after 5:30 p.m. Salvatti had told newsmen that rescuers would reach the trapped men "in the next hour and a half" should the new ventilation system prove a success.

"We believe they are all right—wherever they are," he said.

Rescue efforts had been hampered by smoke and gas filling a passageway 485 feet below the ground where the miners had been trapped behind a wall of fire in the Holden No. 22 mine since 8:30 a.m. e.s.t. Tuesday.

The revised ventilation system was designed after Salvatti personally inspected the disaster area Thursday night with state Mines Director Crawford L. Wilson. Two lines were run about 700 feet into the mine. The lower line provides fresh air into the area while the upper line pushes the smoke and gases out of the mine.

Colder Trend Seen In Area

Residents of the Monroe area can look for cloudy to partly cloudy skies with a trend to colder temperatures tonight. The low is expected to be between 28 to 32 in the northern portion of the state and slightly warmer in the southern parts.

The Federal Aviation Agency at Selman Field reported a high of 52 yesterday and a low of 36.

The weather picture in Arkansas will look much like yesterday's with cloudy skies and temperatures dropping to freezing tonight.

26 PER CENT IN YEAR

Ouachita River's Pollution Declines

Oil field pollution of the Ouachita River has dropped 26 per cent in the past year, pointing the way toward a "clean" river and new water supply for Monroe by 1963.

W. D. H. Rodriguez, city street commissioner, said yesterday oil well operators in South Arkansas are decreasing the amount of brine they dump into the Ouachita and its tributaries.

Kenneth Biglane, executive secretary of the Louisiana Stream Control Commission advised him of the progress in cutting down on river pollution.

ORDER

In the summer of 1958, the Arkansas Water Pollution Control Commission issued an order requiring that oil brine pollution be abated at the rate of 20 per cent a year.

This aimed for a complete end of the pollution within five years.

"Undoubtedly by 1963, with the natural assumption that progress will be carried through, this type of pollution of the Ouachita River will be completely eliminated," Rodriguez forecast.

"The River then will be an excellent source of water for the City of Monroe and will be a bet-

Court Orders Dallas To Plan For Integration

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals today ordered the Dallas, Tex., school board to submit a plan to desegregate its public schools within 51 days.

The ruling came on a request by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People that Dallas schools be racially mixed by next September.

The court said the school board must act on a lower court order which the appeals court modified to require the board to "make a prompt and reasonable start toward full compliance" of an April 16, 1958 district court decision.

FOURTH

It marked the fourth time the case had gone to the appellate court since desegregation efforts began in Dallas in 1955.

The appellate court said the school board must submit a desegregation plan within 30 days after today's ruling becomes final, April 1.

The court also ruled that the district court hold a full hearing within 30 days after the school

Goldfine Linked To Charges Of Tax Evasion

BOSTON (AP)—A federal grand jury Friday charged tax evasions aggregating more than $790,000 against industrialist Bernard Goldfine, whose gift-giving forced the 1958 resignation of Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's assistant.

The former New Hampshire governor resigned after a congressional investigation disclosed he had been lavishly entertained at Goldfine's expense and had received valuable gifts from the New England textile manufacturer.

Both Goldfine and Adams denied any unethical acts although Adams publicly acknowledged that his acceptance of costly gifts had been imprudent.

SENTENCES

Last year, Goldfine and his secretary, Miss Mildred Paperman, were given jail sentences by a federal judge in Boston for contempt in failing to comply with an order to turn over income tax data to internal revenue and investigators in connection with the operation of one of his corporations. Goldfine and his secretary have appealed their sentences to the Supreme Court.

During 1959, Goldfine was also given a year's suspended sentence and a $1,000 fine by a federal court in Washington for contempt of Congress. Goldfine had refused to answer 18 questions about his financial affairs. Later he reappeared before the congressional committee and answered the questions.

Articles Enter Case Of Powell

NEW YORK (AP)—Government witnesses testified Friday that Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) was paid $1,500 for a series of travel articles he wrote for a Harlem newspaper.

The government charges in Powell's income tax evasion trial that he did not report the payment in his 1952 income tax return.

The testimony came from William R. Best, accountant, and Scott Meredith, office representative of the Amsterdam News. They said the Negro congressman from Harlem was paid by check dated Jan. 4, 1952.

The articles were written by Powell during a tour of Europe a few months earlier with his wife Negro pianist Hazel Scott.

CANCER-FIGHTING COBALT

Aspirin-Size Pills Pack Big Wallop

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — Fifteen little pills as big around as aspirin tablets and much thinner—but man, are they hot!

They are cobalt wafers, 308 times as radioactive as the same amount of radium.

Stacked one on top of the other to form a rod the size of a pencil stub, they will be the world's strongest known source of cancer-fighting gamma radiation.

The 15 wafers were on a train Friday bound for Chicago, where the Argonne Cancer Research Hospital will use them in cancer control research. Shielded in a two-ton lead container, they are the hottest 11.7 grams known to medicine.

Phillips Petroleum Co. has been "baking" the wafers for nearly four years, bombarding them with neutrons inside a reactor at the Atomic Energy Commission's national reactor testing station in eastern Idaho.

The strong, tiny source of radiation will allow scientists to focus the rays much as they would a thin point of light to kill cancerous tissue with minimum damage to healthy tissue around it.

The strength of the cobalt will allow shorter exposures.

The cobalt has reached a specific activity of 308 curies per gram. One curie is the measure of the radioactivity of one gram of radium.

Atomic Energy Commission officials, who announced the shipment, said radium of the same strength would weigh eight pounds, fill a two-inch tube 14 inches long, and cost 72 million dollars.

FRANCE CHANGING COINAGE

Tourists May Find Money Confusing

PARIS (AP) — If you're planning a vacation in France this year, practice juggling zeros now.

France is changing its money and will be in the midst of the long process when the spring tourist flood hits.

Basically, the idea is simple. Just knock a pair of zeros off the old money, and you have the new. But tourist officials are a little concerned because for several months there will be three sorts of paper money and two kinds of coinage in circulation.

Take the case of the biggest bill, worth about $20. Tourists will find bills bearing the old 10,000-franc marking overprinted with a 100 new-franc interim marking, and finally the completely new marking of 100 francs. Helpfully, the pictures of Napoleon and the Arch of Triumph remain the same throughout. The old and new money has little in common but follows the same value principle. You just divide by 100.

The value of things you buy isn't changing because of the money switch. Most prices are clearly marked in old and new francs.

The French Finance Ministry has provided brochures for frontier posts and French embassies abroad to ease the money problem for travelers.

Tourist officials are more and more worried about where to put up travelers. The government has earmarked funds to build new hotels, but if the tourist rate continues to go up, park benches will be at a premium. Prices of deluxe and good hotels, as for goods and services in general, have edged up over last year.

Hike In Postal Rates Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — An urgent request for higher postal rates went from President Eisenhower to an unimpressed Congress Friday.

The administration wants first class letter rates boosted from four to five cents an ounce and an extra penny added to the present seven-cent air mail rate.

Post-card rates also would go up, from three to four cents, under proposed new scales to be submitted soon by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

Congress turned down a postal rate increase request last year and is not expected to vote one this year with an election coming up in November.

Eisenhower counted on the increase for 550 million dollars extra when he figured his budget for the new fiscal year that starts July 1.

If Congress does not approve the higher rates, the President's estimated budget surplus of $4,200,000,000 will be reduced by that amount.

In his special message to Congress, Eisenhower said: "Because of the existing inadequate postal rates, the Post Office Department is losing two million dollars every working day. Responsibility in the handling of our public affairs demands prompt action, in this session."

The department's deficits have increased astronomically since World War II, the President said, because the cost of everything it uses or buys has gone up while Congress has failed to keep pace with higher postal rates.

"For example," he said, "since the increase in the first-class letter rate in 1932 from two cents to three cents, costs have more than doubled, but the first-class letter rate has been increased only one-third.

"The annual losses on second and third class mail, now in the hundreds of millions of dollars, are likewise growing."

The President said interest charges alone on the debt represented by the Post Office Department's cumulative deficit are costing the taxpayers some 200 million dollars a year.

Eisenhower's message did not go into the specific increases he wants for each class of mail, but the White House gave reporters the new rate scale that Summerfield will propose.

Second-class mail, mostly newspapers and magazines, would be increased by 40 per cent, and rates on third class mail, mostly advertising matter and small packages, would go up an average of 25 per cent.

The rates on fourth class mail, covering parcel post and catalogs, were increased an average of 17 per cent Feb. 1. Such boosts do not require Congress' okay.

The last increase in first-class rates was in August 1958, when letter mail went up from three cents an ounce to four cents.

powered by the sun's rays, also was reported operating as expected.

The scientists said they expect to be able to keep radio contact with Pioneer V for four or five months, and possibly make new contact some time in 1963.

The mission assigned to the 26-inch-across Pioneer; to radio back to earth data on the phenomena it encounters in the vast reaches between the orbital paths traveled by earth and Venus, which is millions of miles closer to the sun.

According to calculations in the first hours of what may be a never-ending voyage, Pioneer is traveling in a somewhat elliptical orbit that would bring it within 74,700,000 miles of the sun, about five months from now.

That would be about 17 million miles closer to the sun than either the Soviet 1½-ton Mechta or this country's 13-pound Pioneer IV were able to achieve after their launching early in 1959. The new Pioneer's farthest distance from the sun is expected to reach 93 million miles. That is the same as the earth's distance.

Advance word from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was that scientists hoped Pioneer V would intersect Venus' orbit about 67 million miles from the sun.

However, after the launch NASA officials said it never was intended to come closer than about four million miles from Venus' orbit. Even then, Pioneer's path was about three million miles off the mark.

It will take 311 days—About 10 months—for Pioneer V to complete one circuit about the sun, the scientists said. Their advance thinking had been in terms of a somewhat narrow orbit taking 295 days. It is moving counterclockwise to the sun—in the same direction as the earth.

According to post-launch figures Pioneer will cover about 500 million miles in circling the sun, and will veer out as far as 186 million miles from earth.

Pioneer V is equipped with two solar-powered transmitters to send back data on radiation, magnetism, micrometeorites and the like—conditions vitally significant to the ultimate objective of space penetration by humans.

The smaller one, a five-watter, began functioning less than five minutes after launch.

The bigger transmitter is a 150-watt ultrahigh frequency set designed to signal earth from as deep as 50 million miles out. It's by far the most powerful yet used by either this country or the Soviet Union.

Power for the transmitters comes from cells which convert energy from the sun into electricity. These cells are fixed to four paddlewheel-like vanes jutting out from the space probe's waist.

Within four hours of launch, radio telemetry showed that two of the four paddles had locked into place.

When the Thor-Able blasted off from Cape Canaveral, and developed its 165,000 pounds of thrust in a smooth performance, the United States was on its way to recouping some of the prestige it lost in aborted efforts last year.

Probes of this type twice were called off in December because of technical bugs. Friday's effort was originally planned for Thursday, but fueling problems forced a delay.

Dozens of families were cut off in the Smoky Mountains area of Tennessee. Snow has piled up in some places to a depth of 40 inches. Two helicopters were made ready in Knoxville and Nashville for flights to aid the beleaguered.

Virtually all schools were closed and traffic took on new dangers from Columbia northward in South Carolina. Quail were reported dying in the snowbound Piedmont region.

In Cairo, Ill., an additional 4 inches of snow raised the March total to 19.3 surpassing the March record of 11.7 set 68 years ago. Many schools were closed in southern Illinois. Many rural roads were buried in snow as high as fence posts.

The storm that began late Thursday west of the Mississippi sped to the Atlantic seaboard states Friday.

En route, it dropped 6 inches of snow in Malden, Mo., 4 to 6 in southern Illinois, up to 6 in Kentucky and South Carolina and up to 88 in Georgia.

Oakland, Md., had a new low temperature mark for March—20 below zero. Records for the date included zero in Pittsburgs, 12 above in Philadelphia, 4 above in Windsor Locks, Conn., 13 above in Nantucket, Mass., 14 above in Newark, N.J.

Other lows included -24 in Cowlesville, N.Y., -22 in Arcade, N.Y., and Bakersville, Pa., -20 in Central City, Pa., and -3 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Houses

To facilitate progress on the new Interstate Highway 20, fully 30 houses in the path of the future highway will be sold, states Wayne Huckaby, district state highway engineer. The sale is set for March 24. Some of the buildings are still quite substantial, while others are in bad condition and will be of use only as a matter of salvaging lumber.

Most of the buildings are between Stella street and the Ouachita River. Bids on the properties, numbered 1 to 30, must be received at the district highway offices on DeSiard near the overpass by 10 a.m. Thursday, March 24.

School Bill Portion Is Knocked Out

Keating (R-NY), said, "If the same one-two punch can be applied to the rest of the provisions of the administration bill, we will end up with nothing at all."

"We witnessed this afternoon," he added in a statement, "A very adroit maneuver to knock out Section I and water down the civil rights package."

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), leader of the Southern opposition that developed into a full-blown filibuster against the civil rights bill, taunted Northern senators at one point with conducting a filibuster of their own.

Russell's jibe brought quick and sharp denials.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss), opening debate on the Lausche amendment, said the Ohio senator had "put his finger on the very point we Southerners have been trying to get across."

"Why," he added, "should a court order regarding desegregation receive a greater degree of protection under our laws than other court decisions, involving, for example, labor disorders?"

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, apparently cheered by a series of votes Thursday that indicated progress after weeks of stalemate, called for an agreement to vote on the Lausche amendment after two hours of debate.

Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo), one of the signers of a debate-limiting petition which the Senate voted down Thursday, said the Lausche amendment raised a very important issue that would require "long debate." He said he might move to strike out the whole section.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY), one of the leaders of the unsuccessful move to cut off Southern filibuster speeches, entered a formal objection that blocked any unanimous agreement for a voting time on the amendment.

Sen. John O. Pastore (D-RI), who voted with those seeking to limit debate Thursday, backed Carroll's contention that the Lausche amendment should be subject to extended discussion.

Pastore said one group should not be allowed to "talk till the cows come home" against amendments it doesn't like, and a time limit be placed on others.

All this brought Russell to his feet.

"Those who yesterday were demanding the right to vote, those who were advocating cloture," he said, "are now demanding the right to filibuster against the — Lausche — amendment because it would provide equal protection under the Stars and Stripes."

Pastore took exception to Russell's assertion that "those who voted for cloture are filibustering this amendment."

"I am not filibustering against anything," Pastore said. "I want the record to show that."

Carroll denied any intention to filibuster and countered with a proposal to place a three-hour limit on debating not only the Lausche amendment but also the Southern-opposed section it would replace.

This was blocked by an objection from Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) who said with a smile that he believed in "adequate debate on all subjects."

Carroll contended that if Johnson's proposed two-hour limit had been accepted, "those who have been conducting a filibuster" would still have been left free to speak as long as they liked against the original proposal.

The original proposal was presented as a means to prevent a recurrence of the disorders that occurred in Little Rock, Ark., in 1957, after a court ordered the admission of Negroes to a high school there.

ter stream for sport fishing," he pointed out.

During 1957, Monroe took steps to stop oil brine pollution of various tributaries which flow into the Ouachita River. The brine mainly came from Smackover and other oil fields in South Arkansas.

The Arkansas Commission held several hearings, then issued its order that oil wells either close down or start pumping the brine underground.

Police Jurors To Study Bids On Equipment

The Ouachita Parish Police Jury will hold a special meeting next Thursday at 7 p.m., to hear a report and take action on bids on $100,000 worth of equipment.

They also will advertise for bids on furniture for the new Anna Meyer branch of the Ouachita Parish library.

M. W. Montgomery, Jury president, called for the meet yesterday.

At Wednesday's regular meeting, Jurors received several bids on seven large items. Montgomery appointed a special committee, headed by Robert W. Irby of ward three, to consider the bids.

The committee met Thursday night, and will report on its findings at next week's session. They had no authority to purchase the equipment, since it will total approximately $100,000.

SPECIFICATIONS

Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, and architect Milton King will present specifications for library furniture.

Bids will be opened at the next regular meeting, April 13.

Construction is underway on the modern branch library, located on the site of the old library in the 400 block of Jackson Street.

Bad weather slowed up work on the foundation, but some flooring has been poured, Montgomery said.

The library is slated to be opened this autumn.

Bids which the special committee considered Thursday night were on the following pieces of equipment: wheeltractor, crawler tractor, sheep - foot roller, rubber tires, gradall machine and alternate dragline, truck and distributor.

Committee members, in addition to Irby, include Percy Nichols, ward five, W. O. Roberts, seven and Irvin W. Kilpatrick, 10.

Court Orders Dallas To Plan For Integration

board submits the plan.

Judges of the appellate court had taken the case under advisement Feb. 16.

C. B. Bunkley of Dallas, one of the Negro attorneys for the NAACP, had told the court: "We are not asking that the whole system be desegregated," but "some policy should be adopted of immediate desegregation by September, 1960."

Officials of the school district contended they were unable to take any immediate steps toward desegregation because of Texas law which would cut off about $2,700,000 annually in state funds. Texas law also provides criminal penalties against any members of school boards which desegregate.

Moon Moves Into Shadow Early Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — The moon moves into the shadow of the earth Sunday morning and for an hour and 25 minutes will appear strangely copper-red.

It will be visible to everyone in the Western Hemisphere, where weather permits. The total eclipse will occur between 2:41 a.m. Eastern Standard Time and 4:15 a.m. (This is just before midnight Saturday for Pacific Coast residents).

The reddish color is caused by the bending of the long or red wavelengths of sunlight passing through the earth's atmosphere.

The full moon will be riding high in the western sky as it begins to pass through the great cone-shaped shadow of the earth. The tip of the cone extends some 860,000 miles into space.

The moon will take three hours and forty minutes to pass completely through the shadow, explained Joseph M. Chamberlain, chairman of the American Museum-Hayden Planetarium.

The moon is eclipsed by the earth's great cone-shaped shadow whenever the earth stands between the moon and the sun. It happens at the most three times a year, and some years it doesn't happen at all.

The last eclipse last March 24 was only partial and was seen only from Australia, Europe, Asia and Africa.

Sister Of Late Russian Czar Seriously Ill

LONDON (AP) — The Grand Duchess Xenia, 84-year-old sister of Russia's last czar, lay seriously ill in her London home Friday night.

In a darkened bedroom her son and daughter kept vigil at the side of the proud old lady who shut herself away from the world to be alone with her memories.

"We are very worried," said her son, Prince Andrew. He and his sister, Princess Youssoupoff, came from Paris to take up their vigil.

For 14 years, the duchess has scarcely stirred outside her 22-room mansion, called Wilderness House, at Hampton Court on the edge of London.

She fled Russia at the time of the Revolution and the execution of her brother Czar Nicholas II.

Game Violator Fines Given In Court Here

Violations of game laws in Ouachita parish brought fines of $25 and costs of court for three persons who pleaded guilty in Fourth District Court yesterday. The fines were the minimum allowed by law, Judge David I. Garrett pointed out, since the infractions were minor and the circumstances "a little unusual."

Judge Garrett fined Herbert Dunn, who recently moved to Louisiana from Texas, for hunting and attempting to take game quadrupeds, raccoons, at night with a headlight and gun.

Two other local men, R. D. Lowery and L. L. Lawson, were also fined $25 and costs each after they pleaded guilty to possessing firearms while taking frogs. The offenses occurred during the duck season, the two told the court, and the shotguns were in their possession because they had no other place to put them.

SYMPATHETIC

Judge Garrett told the two men he was sympathetic to them in the offense, since he had "done a lot of frog hunting in bygone days." But, he pointed out, the state law prohibits the possession of firearms while hunting the frogs.

After assessing the fines, the judges recalled the two so he could advise them not to use sharpened grabs on frogs — another part, although minor, of the state law.

On the coon hunting, Judge Garrett pointed out that the state law provides they may be hunted with only a single shot .22-calibre rifle, or a gun with only one bullet in it at the time. The use of headlights in night hunting is also against the law.

Voter List Protest Filing Told

BATON ROUGE (AP) — President Waldo F. McNeir of the Louisiana civil Liberties Union said yesterday it filed protests over Negro vote regstration which led to the U.S. Civil Rights Commission hearing in Shreveport last year.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion, defending the vote registrars, last summer won a ruling by a three-judge U.S. court barring the commission from Louisiana under its rules as they existed then.

The U.S. Department of Justice later appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, which has not acted.

McNeir, a Louisiana State University English professor, was a central figure in the 1958 Legislature when lawmakers investigated integration influences at LSU, after some 60 faculty members signed a Civil Liberties Union petition dealing with a racial question of the moment.

McNeir also said the Civil Liberties Union had tried to file a friendly interest brief in the suit of 1,377 Negroes ousted from Washington Parish voter rolls. The Supreme Court recently ordered the Negroes reinstated in time to vote in the April 19 general election.

In a letter to the State-Times, McNeir called attention to a March report for the Louisiana membership which said, in part, under voting rights:

"Asked U.S. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers last March to investigate the existence of a conspiracy in Louisiana to deprive Negroes of their voting rights under the 15th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"We did this because of the campaign being conducted by the (state) Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation to let registrars of voters challenge and discourage Negro registrations and to purge Negro voters from the rolls in an election year."

The LCLU also reported it assisted in preparing a suit against the Orleans Parish School Board on behalf of "qualified Negro applicants for admission to Benjamin Franklin High School for superior students with an IQ of 120 or higher, or those scholastically ready for more advanced work than offered in regular high schools."

The suit was not filed, the LCLU report added, because the organization deferred to the opinion of the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, which the report said, felt such a move might interfere with the NAACP's court battle to desegregate New Orrleans public schools.

J. W. Faler Will Direct Funds Drive

Heading the 1960 fund crusade of the Ouachita Parish Society for Crippled Children and Adults, will be J. W. Faler, veteran officer of the Monroe Fire department.

March 17 has been set as a kickoff date for the campaign, District Chief Faler said. He has been with the fire department for 35 years.

The drive is to conclude in mid-April, the fund chairman said, adding that organization plans have been completed and are "looking good."

LEADERS

"We have been fortunate in securing some outstanding section leaders and workers in the various phases of the drive," Faler stated.

Top sectional leaders in the drive include: Miss Frances Barnes, chairman of the Lily Parade April 15; Mrs. Clay Wilson, chairman of the Mothers March on March 27; Prof. David H. Johnson, chairman of the Colored division Mothers' March on March 27; Mrs. S. K. Heninger, chairman of the Easter Seals mailing committee, and Capt. R. L. Frantom, chairman of the Street Solicitations Committee.

Street solicitations will be conducted on Saturdays, March 19, 26 and April 2, 9 and 16.

"We are well manned in the leadership of these various divisions," Faler said.

"And," he added, "we have some outstanding groups lined up to conduct the street campaign. "We'll kickoff our Saturday street solicitations on March 19th with the Progressive Men's club in charge.

"On succeeding Saturdays," Chief Faler said, "the street solicitations will be conducted by the peace officers, fire department, central trades and labor council and others," he said.

"All in all the campaign looks well lined up. I'd like to request that all workers put their shoulder to the wheel and let's wind this thing up to a successful conclusion this year.

"Our drive will be only as successful as we make it," Faler concluded.

WANTS TO GIVE AWAY BABY

Visa Of Woman Is Suspended

LUTON, England (UPI)—The U.S. State Department temporarily suspended Friday the visa of an English woman who was about to fly to the United States to give away her unborn child.

An embassy spokesman said the visa had been suspended on special instructions from Washington.

Mrs. Yvonne Moore and her husband, Leo, had planned to give their unwanted first child to Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Prescott, of North Charleston, S.C.

The Prescott's had agreed to pay Mrs. Moore's expenses to South Carolina and the costs of her hospitalization in exchange for the child.

After Moore sent a cable to the Prescotts to let them know about the U.S. Embassy action, he cancelled his wife's passage on a flight scheduled for Friday night.

"I couldn't care less what happens now," said the 39-year-old Mrs. Moore. "I have never worried much in my life and I'm not going to start now. I don't know what will happen—whether I shall be able to go or whether the Prescotts will come to England now."

In North Charleston, a UPI reporter called Mrs. Prescott and asked her for comment on suspension of Mrs. Moores visa. Mrs. Prescott hung up without a word.

When the newsman called back, Mrs. Prescott said: "I have nothing to say. I'm not going to talk about this with anybody. We weren't cut off. I hung up.")

INVESTIGATES CAUSE

Moore, who is 40, stayed on the telephone for hours Friday trying to find out what had caused the suspension of the visa.

The U.S. Embassy in London was swamped with calls. A spokesman said he believed the suspension was ordered because the State Department wanted to study the Moore case more thoroughly.

"The department realized that Mrs. Moore's purpose in going to America was to have her baby," the spokesman said. "This has raised a problem. There are valid reasons for granting a visa—business and tourism for example. But this one? The department wants to reexamine the whole thing."

The Moores left for London by car after dinner, presumably to talk with U.S. Embassy officials.

MOTHER OVERJOYED

"I am not worried about this," Moore said. "We are certainly not going to keep the baby no matter what happens."

His mother, Mrs. Ellen Moore, was overjoyed to learn her daughter-in-law had been forbidden to enter the United States. She has been opposed to the plan to give the unborn child away.

"My prayers have come true," she said Friday. "I want the baby and this may mean that now I will be able to have the child myself."

The Moores contended that the baby was coming along "late in life" and since they had become set in their ways, it would be best for the child and for them if it were reared by a couple that really wanted it.

Three Killed

MANILA (AP) — Three persons were killed and four others were critically injured in the explosion of a World War II artillery shell found on a roadside in a village in Pangasinan Province north of here, national police reported Friday. The report said Leon de la Cruz, 60, had found the 105 mm. shell and was tapping it for powder when it exploded. Two boys, aged 11 and 8, who were watching him, died in the blast. The injured also were boys, 11 years or younger.

South Misunderstood

The 18-man filibuster team of southern senators now driving a wedge into northern sentiments on "civil rights" may further succeed in bringing into the open a long-time misunderstanding.

One criticism often directed at the south is the election of officials of the "Claghorn" category to high state offices. The other is the periodic housecleaning of voter rolls which takes many unqualified persons—Negroes and whites—off the voter registration lists.

Northern critics of the south are able to keep a foot in our faces constantly on one of these issues, never realizing that one is closely tied to the other.

Responsible southerners approve no more of demagogues than anyone else. But ever so often politicians of this shading are able to recruit masses of votes from Negroes and white persons who normally cannot meet the literacy requirements to vote.

When a move to put better qualified men into offices comes along down south, the voter roll cleanup usually accompanies it. And criticism from northern politicians again is the result.

While this never-ending criticism is sufficient to make Dixie feel a lack of "togetherness" as far as national unity is concerned, the present debates may lead to a greater measure of understanding.

Several days ago, the Washington columnist James Marlow said the present filibuster may be the last of its kind. He based his reasoning on northern political tactics—the realization that the Negro vote held the balance of power and for that reason, the vote would soon be sought after in the south. He had nothing to say about the type of northern politician who plays for vote balances rather than good administration since there are apparently no demagogues north of the Mason-Dixon line.

The Washington columnist has never paid much attention to southern political tactics if he assumes office seekers here have ignored the voting potential of the Negro. As he put it, "As time passes, the Negro will hold the balance of political power in many areas of the South. No politician can ignore it or fight it."

Where has the writer passed the time the past generation? Even the carpetbaggers tried to set up a functioning legislature making use of the Negro pluralities and had to abandon an admitted failure.

Making use of packed voting rolls by politicians has on several notable occasions put state governors in office. But responsible people refuse to accept such "balance of power" thinking as inevitable— especially when such office holders can leave a state like Louisiana $100 million in debt.

Perhaps certain of the northern senators and other officials have much to learn in hearing what is really an old issue down south receive a thorough airing in the Senate.

Coroner Bill Dispute

In the dispute between members of the Quachita parish police jury and E. A. Conway Memorial hospital over the number of cases handled by the coroner there appear to be good arguments on both sides. If, however, the hospital is merely meeting legal requirements, as officials of the institution state, the only way to remedy the situation would be to change the law.

From the standpoint of economy for the parish, a change in the law might seem advisable, yet there are many things to be taken into consideration. The law was enacted as a protection against undisclosed murders.

Under the law, if a person dies anywhere in the state without having had a physician in attendance within the last 36 hours the coroner must be called. According to the statement of Conway officials, the coroner must be called if a person is dead on arrival at a hospital or if he dies within a 24-hour period.

The situation at Conway hospital undoubtedly is not peculiar to that institution. Other hospitals require the services of a coroner if a person is dead on arrival.

Chief spokesmen in the dispute here were Ray Rhymes, administrator for the hospital, and L. U. Fourmy, ward 10 police juror.

Mr. Fourmy said: "The doctors at Charity hospital (Conway) won't assume the responsibility for issuing death certificates. They want the coroner to sign death certificates for people who die at the hospital."

Mr. Rhymes replied:

"If anyone is dead on arrival at the hospital, or dies within 24 hours after being admitted, it's a coroner's case, according to law.

"If a patient is dead on arrival or if he dies within a few hours after being admitted the cause of death might not be a natural one.

"We wouldn't know for sure unless the coroner examined the body. He is the one who decides whether to order an autopsy."

"When it's an accident victim, certainly the coroner should sign the death certificate, but there's no reason why the attending doctor can't do it for natural deaths," several jurors agreed.

The major point of having a coroner to sign death certificates is to determine one of three things—whether the person died a natural death, an accidental death or was the victim of a homicide. Murderers often attempt to make a death look either natural or accidental. If they can succeed, that is the easiest way they can elude punishment. It is, therefore, not proper to assume that if a person did not die an accidental death he died a natural death.

Thus we arrive at the crux of the law requiring coroner investigations in certain classes of deaths. Not only are the coroner's services required if a person dies suddenly without the services of a physician but any doctor is obligated to call in the coroner if he finds circumstances which may appear to be suspicious.

The coroner in Louisiana is a physician who is endowed with special investigative authority. Most major crimes are so patently evident that officers of the law are notified by ordinary citizens. If, however, there is an attempt at murder so contrived that it will not be evident to the ordinary person and the coroner detects suspicious circumstances, it is his duty to notify officers. His chances of detecting such circumstances are greatly increased if he sees all victims of violent death or death which strikes so suddenly that no physician has been in attendance.

If Conway hospital is calling in the coroner only in cases in which the law says it must do so, and is not using the coroner as a convenience, as some of the police jurors seem to think, the only logical reason for agitation would be to seek a change in the law and even that might not be advisable.

Yip! Yip! Yip!

BASCOM TIMMONS

Butler Bungles Again

Democratic National Committee Chairman Picks Bad Time To Threaten Southern Delegates

It would appear that the Democratic party has a plethora of trouble already with the Senate locked in a battle of physical attrition over civil rights, and Senators doing all sorts of unsenatorial things, without Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul M. Butler picking that inauspicious time to talk about loyalty oath and pledges.

But Butler with his genius for choosing inauspicious times for his headlong plunges toward nowhere has put into the mail a memorandum addressed to all Democratic national committeemen, national committeewomen, state chairman and vice chairmen.

In the letter he tells the party functionaries of the fifty States and of the District of Columbia, Canal Zone, Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands that he will present his own heroic figure before the credential committee at Los Angeles to warn delegations from six Southern States that if they do not walk the chalk line their right to sit in the convention will be challenged.

* * *

The six Southern States to which he referred were Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina, which have a total electoral college strength of 60. These six states have a device for the choosing of Presidential electors who are relieved of the obligation to supporting the nominees chosen for President and Vice President at Los Angeles.

While the Butler letter was in the mail Virginia also put near passage a bill freeing its Democratic electors. Virginia has 12 electoral college votes, which would bring to 72 the number of Southern States electors who would be free after the election to vote for the Democratic or the Republican national ticket, or a third party ticket or for men who were not on any ticket.

If Chairman Butler has any idea that in the year 1960 the Democratic party is going to elect a President without the electoral votes of these Southern States he is just about the only man in the Democratic party who does.

* * *

There will without doubt be debate at Los Angeles over "good faith" resolution and loyalty oaths and other similar matters. Nobody looks for an outbreak of peace at the national convention. But just why Butler, the most embattled man since Custer, chose to add to the party's aches and pains at this time can only be explained by his unerring precision in putting last things first.

Unless the Democratic party resolves the dilemma it is in in Congress what happens at Los Angeles could be academic. If the Senate and House of Representatives finally narrow the present broad base of civil rights legislation to a series of voting provisions the South will still continue to oppose it and extreme Northern liberals will find it wanting, but it could be made acceptable to a majority in both branches of Congress, and could avoid a split, and the Southerners might still feel they could come away from Los Angeles with a ticket and a platform the South "could live with."

But suppose the fight goes on and finally cloture is invoked and the bill was enacted with the two features the South considers most objectionable? One of these is a provision which would have Congress declare, in effect, that the Supreme Court decision against school segregation is the law of the land and would authorize federal and technical assistance to communities in need of help to carry out school desegregation orders.

* * *

The other feature to which the South raises special objection would give statuatory authority to the President's Committee on Government Contracts, now headed by Vice President Nixon. Southerners have revived their old argument against a compulsory Fair Employment Practice Commission. They have been successful in defeating these FEPC measures in the past.

Neither of these two features which are in the bill now being debated by the Senate are contained in the Celler bill, which the House of Representatives will soon take up.

Should the final legislation assume anything like the shape of the seven proposals now before the Senate that would be "it." What difference would it make whether a few delegations from the South bolt or are tossed out of the Los Angeles convention? It is action of Congress now more than of the national convention which could goad up to seven Southern States into freeing their electors, hoping to throw the outcome of the election into the House of Representatives.

Prostate Tests

Real Cause Of Enlargement Hard To Find; Affects Aged

"What is the cause of prostatic enlargement?" asks Mr. J., of Washington, D. C. "I am 65 and have been having some trouble with urination lately. I wonder if it's due to my prostate."

ANSWER: I wish I might make a diagnosis in your case, but I am sure you understand that I growth of the prostate gland is in the prostate. There are many other causes for trouble with urination.

Even your apparently simple question, "What is the cause of prostatic enlargement?" is difficult to answer. Really all we know about it is that benign growth of the prostate yland is due to endocrine (gland) changes in the aging male. In other words, it is rare in the forties. Usually, in those susceptible, enlargement doesn't begin until the 60's, 70's or later.

* * *

Some have thought that enlargement is common in those who engage in excessive sexual activity. We have no scientific proof that this is true. Enlarged glands have been found in those who didn't over-indulge and even in those who abstained entirely. Heredity may be a factor.

Just how does the enlarged prostate cause symptoms? As it grows abnormally large it presses on the neck of the bladder. This disrupts the normal urinary habits. It prevents complete emptying of the bladder.

The patient soon has what we call "residual urine" that he can't pass. This becomes infected and sets up a host of symptoms. Some people rely on prostatic massages to treat the condition. These are of no value in overcoming enlargement of the prostate.

The usual symptoms are frequency of urination. The patient complains of sleep disturbance because he has to "get up at night so many times" to urinate.

He says that the ordinary forceful stream is now decreased in size and force. There is hesitancy, and many interruptions, before he completes the act. There may be pain. Some patients complain of occasional blood in the urine.

* * *

If you have been having similar symptoms, Mr. J., I suggest that you see your doctor. He will probably refer you to a urologist for a cystoscopic examination. This is important. Only in this way can he determine if your symptoms are due to your prostate or to other conditions: for example, cystitis (inflammation of the bladder), tumor of the bladder wall, stone, ulcer or chronic infection.

The patient who "gets up' only one or two times each night and voids without any new discomforts or trouble is usually not a candidate for surgery. But if cystoscopic examinations and other tests indicate that you need operation, don't hesitate.

It's better to have it done when you are in relatively good condition. If you wait too long, the infection from the bladder may back up into your kidneys making you a poor operative risk.

If operation is necessary, whether it is performed from above or below, will depend entirely upon your doctor's judgment.

And don't let age stand in the way, I tell patients. My urologist friends say they are quite used to operating — and getting good results — upon men in their seventies and even eighties.

For Mrs. P., Indianapolis: You say that you have headaches of the kind that really "wreck a person." Yet you still haven't been to a doctor. If you suffer as much as you say you do, why not?

I have a leaflet on the subject that may start you off in the right direction. Write to me c-o this paper for "Hints On How To Overcome Headaches." Enclose 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Christmas Cards

SOME weeks have passed since Christmas Day . . . And yet it is not gone . . . For as we look through cards received . . . The yuletide lingers on . . . We cannot save them all each year . . . Because eventually . . . There must be room for other things . . . That cheer our family . . . But we hold on to every card . . . As long as time permits . . . And never do we throw them out . . . Or tear them into bits . . . They are delivered carefully . . . To hospitals and such . . . Where pretty cards and greetings gay . . . May give a friendly touch . . . Just as we keep our Christmas tree . . . As long as it may last . . . Instead of dumping it as soon . . . As Christmas Day is past.

Michigan Fall

State's Industries Soured By Gov. Williams' Attitude

WASHINGTON, D. C. — It would be cruel to gloat over the fallen fortunes of Michigan's Governor G. Mennen Williams — yet it would be unthrifty not to read the lessons in his wound-up gubernatorial career.

Here is a youngish man as politicians go, not yet 50, who won six straight elections, covering terms totaling 12 years, a man of wealth turned commoner, a Democrat who proved unbeatable in what was a Republican State an educated man, yet something of a liberal revolutionist who turned Michigan from comfortable rule by its merchant princes to turbulence under the Laborite bosses.

It reads at first like a success story, but it isn't. For several years now Michigan has been broke. The hostility of the Williams administration toward business, and the shadow of Walter Reuther at the Governor's shoulder, has soured the local industries. Some of them moved to other Lake States. Some of them withheld investments which were due to be made.

* * *

Public works lagged. Unemployment rose. The visiting reporter learned last year that Reuther was dropping Williams and was looking for "another boy". For some time the Governor has behaved in ways that observers interpreted as meaning he was finished in Michigan. Word went around some months ago that he would try to barter his remaining political strength to some Democratic presidential candidate for the promise of a job — preferably in the Cabinet, ultimately on the Supreme Court.

But politicians climbing up the ladder very seldom trade much with politicians going down. The Eisenhower Administration has been generous to an extreme in giving cushy jobs to lame duck Republican Senators — but this is charity, not competitive bargaining. Candidates Kennedy, Johnson, Symington and Humphrey must ask themselves, "Will it help or hurt my chances to tie up with Soapy Williams?" The question almost answers itself.

There are several lessons. One of them is that the American electorate no longer looks to the State Houses for presidential timber, but looks to Washington. Williams, a perennial White House candidate, would have been wiser to run for the Senate. The American public feels that men in the national government only are in touch with world affairs. The overwhelming preference of Republicans for Vice President Nixon over Governor Rockefeller is easier to understand in the light of the Williams experience.

* * *

Another point is that the welfare state, of which Michigan is the example, has a relatively short life span. Williams would have been much wiser to look upon industry, even in times of big profits, as a friend. No other goose lays such golden eggs. Williams heckled it into declining health.

That was his downfall. With payrolls vanishing, Michigan people looked to the government for help — and they looked in vain. The best that government can give is relief. Productive industry only can give jobs and prosperity. These lessons might well apply to the nation's two most populous States, both with freshman Governors, New York and California. Governor Rockefeller, so far, has insisted on pay-as-you go welfare. Governor Brown's problems are greater, and his fiscal policy is said to be less firm.

* * *

The old adage about the pitcher going to the well once too often is politically sound. Many States limit their governors to one or two terms, and the Constitution limits the President to two. But there are other ways of maintaining power. Surprising as it seems, Democrats in Washington are uneasy about the technical availability of Mr. Eisenhower for the Vice Presidential nomination. The opposition party fears an effort by the old Ike-backers to keep their man close to the throne.

Retiring Employes Get Big Sums From Profit-Sharing Deals

Today in a brief ceremony at Englewood Cliffs, N.J., Miss "X", an employe of Prentice-Hall, Inc. until she retired from her job at the year-end, is receiving a fabulous check for $218,000 from the publishing house's profit-sharing fund.

To get this fortune, all Miss "X" contributed from her paycheck between 1949 and this year was $13,300. By the time of her retirement this sum had grown to $94,000, while the company's contributions to her profit-sharing account since 1943 had grown to $214,000.

Also today, Mr. "Y", another Prentice-Hall employe until Dec. 31, is receiving a whopping check for $188,000.

To get this, all Mr. "Y" contributed from his earnings was $4,000. By his retirement date this had grown to $24,000 while the company's contributions to his account had soared to $164,000.

* * *

The third of today's happy trio of just-retired employes, Mr. "Z", is getting $135,000.

Mr. "Z" didn't contribute a penny during his years of employment. His fortune represents the company's contributions to his account in the profit-sharing plan.

From a handful in the '30s, deferred-payment profit - sharing plans in the U.S. have grown to an estimated 10,000 and are reported increasing at a rate of 2,500 a year. Some of the oldest ones — such as that of Procter & Gamble, started in 1887, and Sears Roebuck started in 1916— are known throughout the world.

The basis for their long life and rising popularity is simple. By offering employes a share in the profits, companies can attract and hold valuable employes. On the other hand, employes are encouraged to keep down costs and help hike profits because they can benefit directly as profits swell.

* * *

Now the spectacular performance of the plan of Prentice-Hall — among the top half-dozen publishing firms in the country — is making it a rival even for the world-famed plans. When I heard of the fortunes being paid to the trio today, I called on executives of Prentice-Hall for details. Here is how the plan works:

(1) P-H contributes up to 20 per cent of its profits before taxes, but not more than 15 per cent of its total payroll.

(2) This contribution is prorated among employes so that each gets a credit in the plan in proportion to his or her salary.

(3) Employes can match the company's contribution, put in a fraction or if they wish, contribute nothing.

(4) After being a member for three years, an employe can start drawing on his credits in the fund up to specified limits. There is a penalty for early withdrawals and the employe must pay full income tax on what he takes out but many P-H employes do draw on their credits regularly to finance major purchases, a child's education, etc.

(5) The big payments, though, go to those who leave their credits in the profit-sharing account until retirement, for then the entire amounts become payable in lump sums or in instalments and the money is taxed only at the capital gains rate. This is the key to the fortunes today's trio is getting.

* * *

Why the dazzling growth in the P-H fund in the past 11 years? One obvious answer, of course, is the jump in the company's profits, due primarily to the fact that P-H has been a leader in the textbook field during this cycle of an exploding school population. Even more important has been the phenomenal success of its investments in "glamor" stocks and its big stake in P-H stock itself. Taking into consideration a stock split, P-H stock has soared from $15 at the end of 1958 to the equivalent of around $135.

"Our greatest asset is the creativity of our employes," P-H president John G. Powers emphasized repeatedly. "The profit-sharing plan is protecting that creativity, benefiting employes and us as well."

Daily Devotional

He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much. — Luke 16:10.

When you go for a physical check - up, a small sample of blood, for testing, tells the condition of all the blood in your body. The man who is meticulously honest in small matters can usually be depended upon to have the same attitude in handling more important things. What is more to be desired than to have God eventually say to us, as did the owner of the talents to his good servants, "Thou has been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things"

Gracious God, help us to merit Thy trust and confidence through our daily acts of service and devotion to the needy and the discouraged. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

2 Candidates Give Stands In Statements

Two persons Friday issued formal announcements in behalf of their candidacies for the Monroe City School Board.

They are H. W. Griffin and Mrs. Hazel Boies Garlington.

Griffin's statement:

"I am 36 years old. I was born in Tampa, Fla. I enlisted in the U. S. Navy on Dec. 6, 1941 and was discharged on March 28, 1944 with an honorable discharge.

"I then enrolled in Southern College at Lakeland, Fla. I studied a business law course for a year, then enrolled in Southern Baptist Bible School at Lakeland, Fla.

STUDY

"There I studied for close to a year. Following this I moved to Monroe where I was employed by Ford, Bacon and Davis, Co. for close to three years in the engineering department as a draftsman.

"Next I was with Louisiana Power and Light Co. for three years in the same department. Following this I started the Griffin Night Patrol, with which I have been serving Monroe for the past seven years.

"I sincerely hope for a chance to serve the Monroe City School Board. It is by deepest desire to work, and work with the board, because the future of our country depends on the interest that we all have in it, and my interest, our country and our children.

"My heart is in my desire, and my desire is to help. Thank you, sincerely."

PROGRESS

Mrs. Garlington's statement:

"I realize that the public school is necessary for the continuance of a democracy such as ours. We need to reassure ourselves that American education has made great strides of progress and it behooves us to keep faith with this progress by making far-sighted plans. We need to be alerted to our needs as well as our accomplishments. The curriculum must ever be expanded and - or correlated to enable our students to keep abreast of the times.

"Out population is on the increase and needed physical facilities for education must be provided for this increase in as economical manner as possible. People with foresight should be placed on our school boards so that these needs may be met. I believe that my experience as a teacher, as a mother actively participating in school affairs and as a business woman, will enable me to render service to our excellent City School System.

"I ask the voters of the city of Monroe to show their confidence in me by electing me to one of the five posts, I assure each voter that I will do all in my power to cooperate with every other board member to do my best to promote the interest of our schools."

Instructor At Northeast Writes Book

A book authored by Northeast State College faculty member Dr. Frank Welder has been published by Louisiana State University.

The book, "Processes of Deltaic Sedimentation in the Lower Mississippi River," is the result of long research by the author, who is assistant professor of geology at the college.

It originated as a project financed by the Office of Naval Research for the study of navigability and traffic ability in delta - type marshlands.

DATA

Dr. Welder worked on small boats for two years near the mouth of the Mississippi River gathering data and making observations along the marshes, river channels, tidal channels and bays.

Information which he gathered was used to develop principles of sedimentation concerned with origin of topographic forms may be interpreted from maps and aerial photographs from both military and academic viewpoints.

Copies of the book are to be distributed to educational institutions and governmental departments in the United States and 29 foreign countries.

Dr. Welder said he hopes to initiate similar studies in the Monroe- Vicksburg area.

DANNY THOMAS

Comedian Is Aid In Girl's Illness

NEW YORK (AP)—The hospital room grew quiet as a nurse placed a telephone receiver against the ear of a little girl lying so still under the white covers.

"It's Danny Thomas. He wants to talk to you."

Seven-year-old Judy Ann Rawson lay motionless. Until last Saturday when her eyes flickered open she had been in a month-long coma from sleeping sickness. Medical science could do nothing for her.

That's where Danny Thomas came in. Danny is Judy Ann's favorite comedian and doctors hoped that a word from Danny....

"Hello, dear," said Thomas, in Hollywood.

Judy Ann, still paralyzed from the malady, gave no sign. Had she heard? Did she understand?

A newspaper, a broadcasting network and a telephone company had teamed up to bring her that call. The girl's physician, knowing her affection for Thomas, told a reporter on the Long Island Press. The reporter told the Columbia Broadcasting System, which told Thomas.

But when the comedian tried to call Friday, the hospital telephone was too far from Judy Ann's bed. Within an hour, the New York Telephone Co. had installed a bedside phone in her room at Wyckoff Heights Hospital in Brooklyn.

Thomas continued: trying to waken one spark in the sick child.

"I want you to get well immediately. When you do you'll come out to Hollywood and be my guest. . . I'm glad you like our show. Next Monday night we'll be doing it just for you."

"Judy Ann," pleaded Thomas. "Say something to me. Try to say goodby."

Judy Ann's eyes filled with tears. But she did not reply.

"I will pray for you to St. Jude, my patron saint," said the comedian. "I know you will get well." He paused, then:

"Judy Ann, please tell me goodby."

Then — for the first time in many weeks—her lips moved in a barely audible murmur.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD

When a small space was reserved for a Meditation room at the United Nations Center, we decided to try and achieve within this space a room of silence, dedicated to silence in the outward sense and stillness in the inner sense.

There was one difficulty. In a room of this kind, in a house of this character, we could not use any of the symbols with which man has been used to link his religious feelings; we had to work on the basis of symbols common to all.

One of Buddha's scripts states. I believe, that the significance of the vessel is not in the shell but the void. In other words the significance of a room is not the walls but is in what is framed by the walls.

PURITY OF LINE

That was a help, because it meant that we could perhaps do away with symbols if on the other hand we achieved purity. With an absolute purity of line and color, we could realize a room of stillness with perhaps one or two very simple symbols; light and light striking on stone.

It is for that reason that in the center of the Meditation Room there is a block of iron ore, glimmering like ice in a shaft of light from above.

The Room has an empty altar, empty not because there is no God but empty because God is worshipped in so many forms. The stone is the altar to the God of all.

THE PARADOX OF LIFE

Since what we are trying to do here in this house is to turn swords into ploughshares, we thought we could bless, by our thoughts, the very material out of which swords have been made and homes built. It is a material which represents the very paradox of human life; the basic materials offered by God to us for construction or destruction. This leads our thoughts to the necessity of choice.

So, in the seeming void of the Room, there is something we want to say. We want to bring back the stillness which we have lost in our streets, and in our conference rooms. We want to bring back the idea of worship, devotion to something which is greater and higher than we are ourselves.

Finally, we were trying to create a Meditation Room where men of all kinds and from all regions of the world would have a place where each could find his own God.

Journalist Discusses Government

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The growth of government press agentry is "a far more formidable barrier to information than secrecy in public office," Wes Gallagher, assistant general manager of The Associated Press, said Friday.

He told the Southwestern Journalism Congress "secrecy comes out sooner or later, but how many stories are written on information that is a combination of half-truths and ax-grinding by particular interests?"

Dr. Robert J. Steamer, government professor at Louisiana State University, cautioned while government may have some valid reasons for withholding information, "secrecy must always be a exception, not the rule.

"Lack of information, he emphasized, "mutilates the thinking process and produces an ill - informed judgment on the part of the nation."

Some 200 delegates from 15 universities and colleges in Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma attended the session which will end Saturday.

Gallagher said, "No where do the press agents exist in greater numbers than in government. They are professional and skillful in achieving their end.

"In theory they are there to help the press get the news, but in practice they have only one primary function — to present their bosses and their causes in the most favorable light possible.

"If the whole truth accomplishes this end, you get the whole truth. But if the half truth gets the job done, that's what you get."

Gallagher is a graduate of LSU and a former war correspondent.

Steamer, in his talk, said there is always a danger of the journalist becoming a public relations man for government.

Tot Enters Fire To Rescue Toy, Never Returns

FOLEY, Minn. (UPI)—A three-year-old boy ran into his burning home to get his teddy bear Friday and died there, along with his 6-year-old sister.

The victims were Jerome Kubat, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kubat, and his sister Margaret.

Three other children, Robert, 8; James, 7, and Maxine, 18 months, fled safely.

The mother and the children were in the house and the father in a barn when the fire broke out in the frame house 12 miles north of here.

Mrs. Kubat managed to get all the children except Margaret out of the house. She said she was unable to find her.

But authorities said, Jerome ran back into the house to rescue his toy, and never returned.

State Owners Of Boats Set For Information

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Louisiana boat owners will know next week if they have to register their small craft under the federal Bonner Act by April 1 or whether Washington will grant a period of grace until Louisiana can pass its own law.

A Coast Guard spokesman in New Orleans said Friday Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington is expected to make an official announcement "on or about March 15."

The spokesman said that if an extension is granted it will probably run through July 1. By that time the Louisiana Legislature, which convenes in May, should have its own bill passed.

Louisiana does not have a state boat numbering law and under the Federal law passed in 1958, boats with motors of 10 horsepower or more must apply for Coast Guard registration by April 1.

The federal government steps out of the picture in any state where local legislation conforms with the federal act.

However, if the government does not allow a postponement then thousands of boat owners will be required to register with the Coast Guard before the April deadline.

"If this occurs," the spokesman said, "detailed instructions on where and how to register boats, will be released Monday."

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

MEDICAL BROWSING

The physician's share of the health dollar is dropping, according to Medical Economics. Until 1955, Americans spent more money on physicians than on hospitals and medicines. At that time they began to spend more on hospital bills than for drugs and physicians. Now hospitals and drugs are on top and physicians get the smallest share.

This is to be expected because physicians practice more scientific medicine by utilizing the hospital more often and by prescribing drugs that may be expensive but are more specific in their ability to cure. The patient is money ahead because he gets well faster and returns to work sooner.

Getting back on the job quickly has lost its appeal for some people because they get a full salary when ill. Some make more money when sick than while working because of the added revenue from insurance policies, union benefits, and tax deductions for a full week of hospitalization. For these individuals, better medical care has neither meaning nor advantage — monetarily speaking.

Many physicians are banking on the value of clot dissolving enzymes to reduce heart muscle damage from heart attacks. It is a step in the right direction, but to date, clots in the veins of the legs have responded better than clots in the coronary arteries.

More optimistic results have been obtained in experimental heart attacks in animals, where the enzymes reopen the block in the coronary artery and bring fresh blood to the heart muscle. The istuation in humans is somewhat different because the coronary arteries of a man having a heart attack are narrowed and thickened, whereas those of animals are normal. In addition, when the block is made in the laboratory, the researchers know the exact time when the vessel was plugged.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

SOUNDS LIKE HIVES

B. L. writes: A swelling comes upon me from time to time. It may be on a jaw, the bottom of one foot, or an upper arm. The affected places are red but do not hurt. Can you tell me the cause?

REPLY

You may have hives due to something you eat, wear, inhale, or touch. Tests would be needed to determine the culprit.

CALCIUM AND ARTHRITIS

E. R. writes: Should milk and other calcium rich foods be avoided in arthritis of the spine?

REPLY

No, because the calcium in foods does not aggravate or influence arthritis in any way. A good diet is fundamental in the treatment of arthritis. This means that calcium rich foods, such as milk and vegetables, are essential.

CHRONIC BRONCHITIS

D. B. writes: Is there no cure for bronchial infection that has turned into a sort of chronic bronchitis?

REPLY

Cure depends upon the cause and whether the disease is limited to a small area or scattered thruout the lungs. A small, well localized area of infection can be removed surgically. Some chronic bronchial infections can be corrected provided the causative micro-organisms are amenable to remedies such as penicillin.

.. PEDICULOSIS

M. J. writes: My problem is how to get rid of head lice at our house. Can you help?

REPLY

Each member of the household must be delousèd. Instructions on eliminating head lice and nits are contained in our leaflet on this subject which may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

Governor Says Finished With Chessman Case

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "I'm now through with the Caryl Chessman case," Gov. Edmund Brown told his news conference Friday.

Any further reprieve, he said, would be an abuse and an excess of gubernatorial power in view of the Legislature's refusal of the death penalty abolition bill and the State Supreme Court's refusal to recommend commutation of Chessman's death sentence.

Brown declined to answer, however, when asked if he would follow the court's recommendation if it should reverse itself on another commutation plea.

Reminded that he once said in a television interview that if the court had recommended commutation he would have agreed, Brown said: "It was an honest answer at that time."

He added that since he now is powerless to act, the public image of U. S. jstice held by foreigners will have to be considered by the Supreme Court, not by him.

A letter from the U. S. State Department expressing concern lest Chessman's scheduled execution touch off hostile demonstrations in Uruguay during President Eisenhower's visit figured heavily in Brown's grant of a 60-day reprieve beginning Feb. 19, the death date.

Brown's office has received thousands of letters and telegrams from overseas protesting Chessman's execution for a series of 1948 kidnap-robbery-sex crimes. The bulk of these communications came from countries which oppose capital punishment.

Body Of One American Found In Quake Ruins

AGADIR, Morocco (UPI)—The body of one of four Americans known to have died in the Agadir earthquake was recovered Friday by rescue workers who also dug out two still-living Moroccans 12 days after they were entombed.

The body of George Christo, 56, of San Francisco, was one of five five recovered from the ruins of the crumbled Saada (happiness) resort Hotel by U.S. Army bulldozer crews.

An estimated 250 Saada guests were trapped and killed when the earthquake destroyed Agadir 12 nights ago.

Still missing were Andrew Kalpakoff, 48, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Werner Bauer of 3613 Rose Ave. Placentia, Calif.

Mrs. Bauer's daughter Nora, 16, was pulled from the wreckage with a leg injury, but died in the hospital Wednesday from a embolism. She was buried Friday. The latest American victim's father, Werner Bauer, was recovering from bruises and shock.

The Moroccans taken from the wreckage Friday were so weak they barely could speak. They were found in the ruins of the Moslem quarter, where most of the earthquake's estimated 10,000 victims met death.

Ten persons have been found alive in the past two days.

DISCUSS BORDER

CLOTHES MAKE YOUR MAN

Initials On Shirts Are Very Necessary

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I gave my husband a beautiful shirt for Valentine's Day. I had his initials put on the pocket. He likes the shirt but doesn't want to wear it. He thinks monograms are a sign of being vain. I feel initials or names on shirts, ties, and other apparel adds a personal touch. Am I wrong?

Mrs. Roy H.

How were they applied? I've seen initials and names on shirts and ties that lacked only a little neon to resemble a sign. That's out of place on clothing. Neatly done, a man's initials are in good taste and do add a personal touch. Tell him it's no more vain than a monogram on a tie clip, wallet or watch.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: Do you think a middle - aged man can wear bow ties? My husband never has worn one. I'd like him to try it. What kind goes with a business suit? What style shirt collar is best? Also do you recommend clip-on bows? As you can see I know very little about them and would like your help.

Mrs. M. V.

Bow ties aren't a monopoly of the young set, men of all ages can wear them. Pick smooth silks in deep shades with a neat pattern for business wear. I like a regular collar with standard points. Start off with clip-ons. Then if he becomes a bow tie enthusiast, switch to the tie-it-yourself kind. They have a more natural look.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: I have been reprimanded for wearing a suburban coat to the office as not being proper dress. In my opinion, it's a nice looking coat, being gray with a fleck of darker gray. I work in an office where a business suit, white shirt and tie are required. What is your opinion?

R. L.K.

Change the repirmands to compliments by using the suburban coat with your sport outfits for hiking in the country, going to neighborhood movies, informal visits and any other occasions that call for casual clothes. As nice looking as it may be, a suburban coat is not exactly an item to wear to the office over a business suit, white shirt and tie.

DEAR MR. JUSTER: This isn't about clothing but thought you might help. I want to give my girl red roses for her birthday as I was told red in roses shows you love a person. Only thing, she's red headed and this gives some girls a complex. Do you think she would be offended if I get yellow or white, or should I stay to red even though her hair is that color?

Bill

Do you expect her to wear them in her hair! Women tell me that the important thing about a gift is the thought. If she likes you, don't worry about the color. Whether they are red, pink, yellow or white, she'll enjoy them.

TIP FOR THE DAY

Have You Complimented Him Lately?

A woman reader writes "My husband never seemed interested in his looks. I started complimenting him occasionally whenever he dressed nicely. To my surprise he actually has begun to give some thought to his appearance. I wish I had thought of this sooner." Why don't you try it? A few well-placed compliments can do wonders.

Mr, Juster will be glad to answer your questions. His new leaflet, "Knotty Problems" will show you know to get an attractive knot in your tie, whether it's a four-in-hand or a bow. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the leaflet. Address Harry Juster in care of The World.

MORELAND NAMED

All-Star Team Reflects GSC's Accent On Youth

By TRUMAN STACEY
(Written for the Louisiana Sports Writers Association)

LAKE CHARLES, La. — The accent was on youth, more than ever before, in the Gulf States conference during the 1959-60 basketball season.

A year ago, the conference's all-star cage team, selected by the Louisiana Sports Writers association, contained only one senior.

This year, the 1959-60 outfit consists of five under-classmen. All of them will be eligible for action next year, if they return to school. The "if" is included in the above sentence, because there has been some discussion that Jackie Moreland, Louisiana Tech's 6 -feet -3 shotmaker, may pass up his senior year at Tech for a shot at the pro game.

Moreland originally matriculated at North Carolina State college, and his original class will graduate in June. That will make him eligible for a pro offer if he is interested.

Moreland is one of two repeaters from the 1958 - 59 team who landed a first-team berth again. The other is Bill McHorris, slick little SLI long - shot artist.

Rounding out the 1959-60 all-star team are Tim Thompson, another SLI ace, and two players from Northwestern State's championship crew, Larry Skinner and Gene Wright. Wright is a sophomore. The others are juniors.

Moreland led the balloting among the scribes, and was chosen as the circuit's outstanding player, despite the fact that he missed three games because of injuries. Under LSWA rules, a player must participate in at least 70 per cent of his conference games to be eligible for all-conference honors. Moreland barely made the grade in that respect, but the writers were so impressed with his accomplishments in seven games that he led the ticket.

Each writer was asked to name the conference's top 10 players, in their order of competence. Moreland was the top man on 15 of 31 ballots, and wound up with 228 points, based on 10 points for first place, nine for second eight for third, etc.

In his seven circuit games, Moreland grabbed 78 rebounds, converted 31 of 39 free tries for a sparkling 80 per cent and shot 44 per cent from the floor.

Right behind Moreland in total points in 10 games, Wright, the Skinner, who was the Demon's point leader on a total of 163 points in 10 games, Wright, the other Northwestern performer on the first team, was right behind him with 157 points in 10 games. The two were the principal reasons why the Demons were able to compile an 8-2 mark and take the championship, after injuries put favored Louisiana Tech out of the running.

McHorris and Thompson were perhaps the most dangerous one-two punch in the circuit. With McHorris able to operate at long range on driving layups, and with Thompson working the boards or from long range, the two teamed together perfectly.

After a slow start, Thompson developed rapidly, and during the last half of the season probably was the circuit's hottest performer. In his last five starts, he averaged 21.6 points per game. He wound up with 180 points, tops for the conference, and an 18-point average. He also had 60 rebounds.

McHorris suffered a mid-season scoring slump that may have cost him the crown, but he recovered briskly, and finished with 164 points.

Ray Germany of Louisiana Tech and Stan Kernan of McNeese, undergraduates who made the team a year ago, are missing this year. Germany, hampered by a back ailment a large part of the season, wound up on the second team and Kernan dropped out of school.

IN FLORIDA, ARIZONA

Exhibition Schedule Opens Today With Eight Contests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The exhibition schedule gets the baseball season informally under way Saturday with eight games in sunny Florida and Arizona.

The signing Friday of the New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle, at $65,000 the American League's highest - paid performer, erased one of the three main holdouts.

The other two are Lew Burdette, Milwaukee's 21-game winner, and Minnie Minoso, the hard-hitting outfielder of the Chicago White Sox. Minoso is in camp but still trying for a better salary arrangement. Burdette hasn't budged from his stand for more pay.

Mantle, slightly overweight and not in top playing shape, will not be in action when the Yankees go against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, Fla. The centerfielder wants about three days of road work before he starts taking his cuts at the plate.

Hero are the day's other games: Chicago White Sox vs. Cincinnati at Sarasota; Los Angeles vs. Kansas City at Vero Beach; Milwaukee vs. Philadelphia at Clearwater; Pittsburgh vs. Baltimore at Miami; Washington vs. Detroit at Lakeland; Chicago Cubs vs. Boston at Mesa; Ariz., and San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson.

All Florida games start at 1:30 p.m., EST, except that at Vero Beach, which begins at 2 p.m. The two Arizona games have 3:30 p.m. EST, starting times.

The spring exhibition games serve the same purpose as sparring sessions for the fighter. They are a means of conditioning and experimenting, and don't count a thing—except as a source of debate for the avid baseball fans.

For instance, the Baltimore Orioles were the American League's spring training champs last spring but managed to finish no better than sixth for the regular season. The Pittsburgh Pirates topped the National League in spring victories only to finish fourth in the season's standings.

Los Angeles, the ultimate NL champion, finished second in the spring but Milwaukee, a pennant contender all the way, was next to last at seventh place.

As usual, in these early games, managers aren't taking too many chances with their pitchers' arms and will use moundsmen in clusters. The general practice is to use three pitchers, each for three innings.

Manager Solly Hemus of the Cardinals said he would throw a trio of veterans—Larry Jackson, Wilmer Mizell and Ronnie Kline—at the Yankees. The Phillies are going with three established hurlers—Robin Roberts, Don Cardwell and John Buzhardt—against Milwaukee.

But Al Lopez, the White Sox manager, said he would rest his oldsters such as Early Wynn, Billy Pierce and Dick Donovan and use his younger pitchers during the early games. Against the Reds he is going with Barry Latman, Frank Baumann and Kent McBride.

Louisiana Tech Signs Joe Cage

Cage, who set a state javelin record (since broken), made the all-state football second team twice and starred in baseball and basketball during his career at Neville, said he would probably pass up football and concentrate on track at Louisiana Tech.

Tech Assistant Coach Huey Williamson signed Cage.

A halfback, the 170 - pounder was the leading round-gainer on Neville's state class AA championship grid team last year and was named to the all -district 2-AA club and the all -state second team for the second straight year.

As a thinclad, Cage set a national high school record for sophomores with a javelin throw of 196 feet and 11 inches in 1957, a composite state prep record of 202-6 and hit his personal high of 206-3 in the Southern AAU meet, both in 1958. Cage's composite state mark has since been beaten by Lafayette's Edward Red but his distance is still tops in class AA. Besides throwing the javelin, Cage competed in the discus, shot put and mile relay last year at Neville.

Cage may compete in the annual Shreveport Relays today although the Neville team will not make the trip. Neville Coach George Davis said last night lack of practice this week caused him to call off plans to take a team to Shreveport. Cage said he and weightman Mickey Cox might make the trip to Shreveport on their own.

Georgia Tech Masters Ohio U., 57 To 54

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Georgia Tech, runner-up in the Southeastern Conference, held off Ohio University in the closing minutes Friday night for a 57-54 basketball victory in a heart-throbbing semi-final game of the Mideast NCAA regional.

Ohio State, the regional favorite met Western Kentucky in the other game at Freedom Hall.

Tech survived a shaky first half in which it trailed 33-23 to come back strong on the shooting accuracy of Roger Kaiser and Dave Denton, the team's leading rebounder all season.

With Kaiser chipping away at the lead by sinking long set shots, Tech, caught up with the Bobcats late in the second half. With 4:55 left in the game, Kaiser dunked in a pair of free throws to put the winner ahead 49-48.

Howard Jolliff, the leading point producer for Ohio University, stepped to the free throw line, where he had missed five attempts previously, and sank two throws to put the Mid-American Conference titlists back in front 50-49.

Denton sent Tech back into the lead with a short one-hander and added a free throw to make it 52-50.

Ohio U. picked up another point at the free throw line but Kaiser came back to the keyhole and sank two more charity throws to give Tech a 54-51 bulge. Less than a minute later Kaiser was fouled again and sank two more free throws to push the SEC representatives ahead 56-51.

Warriors Trim Nats, 115 To 92

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pro basketball's most potent 1-2 scoring punch—Paul Arizin and Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain — combined for 75 points Friday night, leading the Philadelphia Warriors to a 115-92 victory over the Syracuse Nats in the first of a three-game National Basketball Assn. Eastern Division semifinal playoff.

The overwhelming Warriors' victory sent the two teams to Syracuse for Sunday's second game of the series to determine an opponent for the Eastern champion Boston Celtics.

Arizin, the playoff tested veteran, collected 40 points while Chamberlain, the fabulous 7-1 rookie, netted 35 as the Warriors rallied early and late in dumping the Nats.

Westminster Ends Reign By Tenn. A-I

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Steady Don McCaig scored on a follow shot with three seconds left and Westminster ended the three year reign of Tennessee State in the NAIA Basketball Tournament by the almost unbelievable score of 39-38 in the semifinals Friday night.

Southwest Texas State of San Marcos was matched with William Jewell College of Liberty, Mo., in the other semifinal.

Westminster harassed, antagonized and confused Tennessee State with a ball-control game that had the Pennsylvanians on top until less than three minutes remained.

Tennessee State went ahead with 2:59 to go on a pair of free throws by Gene Werts. Trailing 37-38, the West Penn Conference champions elected to play for a win-or-lose shot.

They controlled the ball until 52 seconds remained and called time out. Ron Galbreath hit the rim on a long set shot and McCaig grabbed the loose ball and slammed in the winning basket.

Chuckie Davis, 5-9 senior from Brooklyn, was the playmaker and key man in Westminster's effort. He and Ron Johnson of Tennessee State each scored 15 points.

Westminister made 16 of its 31 field shots for 51.6 per cent. Tennessee made 14 of 31 for 45.2 per cent.

Tennessee State had won 18 games in a row in NAIA tournaments. The victory string was the longest in the 22-year history of the tournament.

SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — A rash of injuries Friday forced Washington Senators Manager Cookie Lavagetto to change his plans for the opening exhibition game at Lakeland Saturday against the Detroit Tigers.

TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —Harvey Kuenn and Charley Maxwell, both stubborn holdouts this spring, joined the Detroit Tigers' spring training workouts for the first time Friday.

Both were in surprisingly fine trim.

Coaches are expecting the Tigers to squeeze the maximum out of minimum opportunities at both locations.

8 Teams In Semifinals Of Hawsey Meet

OGDEN, La. (Special) — Semifinalists were decided in all four divisions of the annual Charles Hawsey Memorial basketball tournament here last night as eight entries moved past quarterfinal opponents.

Semifinal play begins this morning at 8:20 and will climax with the final contest at 2:15. Finals are set for 5 p.m. in the high school girls bracket, 6:10 in the high school boys division, 7:20 in the independent girls competition and 8:30 in the independent boys title game.

In high school boys action yesterday Central whipped Mangham, 84-46, Block dropped Baskin, 66-49, and Harrisonburg whipped Holly Ridge, 57-55. Carroll McHenry and Butch Stegall led the Central victory with 27 and 16 points, respectively, while Morris Glasscell tallied 20 for Mangham.

Billy Brooks dropped in 24 points for Block and Harry Mock and Johnny Gray netted 21 apiece for Baskin. A 20-point effort by Joe Townshend piloted the Harrisonburg win while Claude Patrick scored 18 for Holly Ridge.

Linda Hatton's 24 counters boosted the Ogden high school girls to a 54-38 decision over Block. Gracie Bradford and Joyce Butts had 13 each for the losers.

Shirley Pierce, a 6-2 lassie, found the range for 42 points as Crowville sped past Harrisonburg, 54-46, in the other prep girls contest. Nancy Humble collected 25 for Harrisonburg.

The Hinds Eagles ran roughshod over Ogden, 88-38, in the final game of the night. Larry Pennington and Buck Lawrence were the leading scorers with 21 points each.

Thomas Tops World Record

CHICAGO (AP)—John Thomas, the 19-year-old sophomore high jumper from Boston University broke the world record with a leap of 7 feet, 2½ inches before a crowd of 10,000 whose cheers shook the International Amphitheatre Friday night.

Thomas, who only a month ago went 7-2 and has cleared 7 feet in his last 11 meets, ran out of competition when he cleared 6-9¼.

Thomas' leap highlighted an otherwise dull meet with poor times except for Hayes Jones' world record tying time of 07.0 in the 60-yard high hurdles.

Jones, the Eastern Michigan star who is undefeated this season, again defeated Lee Calhoun, of Gary, Ind., the 1956 Olympic 110-meter champion.

Mantle Inks Contract For Healthy Cut

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Mickey Mantle, the big man of the New York Yankees, Friday ended a 11-day long distance holdout and signed for a reported $65,000 salary after taking a "pretty good cut."

The 28-year-old center fielder flew into town from his Dallas home Thursday night and came to terms with General Manager George Weiss after a two-minute conference.

Both Mantle and Weiss admitted the Yankee star had been forced to take a cut from his 1959 salary estimated at $75,000. However, it was believed the compromise settlement was $65,000. The original Yankee offer reportedly was $55,000. By baseball rule a player's salary can be cut only 25 per cent.

For the first time in the memory of veteran writers, Weiss actually mentioned some figures in discussing a player's salary.

"I told Mickey that when you jump in five years from $11,000 to $70,000-odd, you can't expect to get thousand dollar cuts after a bad year," said Weiss.

It was Weiss who described the salary as a compromise. Thirty minutes later when reporters talked to Mantle he said, "I took a pretty good cut, I'll tell you that."

NYU Upsets West Virginia

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Little Russ Cunningham hit a foul shot with eight seconds left in an overtime period Friday night to give New York University an 82-81 upset victory over West Virginia in the second round of the NCAA Eastern regional basketball playoffs.

The Violets meet the winner of Friday night's Duke - St. Joseph's nightcap in Saturday night's regional finals. West Virginia meets the loser in a consolation game.

NYU had jumped into a quick first-half lead which reached as much as 10 points, 28-18, with 12 minutes gone. But the nationally sixth - ranked Mountaineers whittled away at the lead and held a one-point halftime margin, 41-40. And it took a scrapping finish by the Violets to send the game into overtime, with regulation time ending 77-77.

Mountaineer All-America Jerry West put West Virginia ahead 79-77 on a driving layup with 3:09 left in the overtime. Ray Paprocky came right back to tie the score 79-79.

THE IRISH

Ah, the luck of the Irish!

But the Italian-flavored Irish of St. Matthew's, like most good sons of the old sod, made their own luck in winning the state class A championship and never was their brand of good fortune more evident than in the finals against Larose-Cutoff Tuesday night.

Jim Mahoney's club, a very good team during the regular season, became a great one during the playoffs. Their knack of capitalizing on opponents' mistakes and coolness under pressure gave them four playoff victories in games that could easily have gone the other way.

Here's the Irish playoff record:

Feb. 6—Frankie Accardo sinks five of six free throws in last minute to break up tight game for 74-70 victory over Winnfield.

March 1—Charley Biggar hits bucket from corner with two seconds left to tie game and Buddy Embanato makes long shot with two seconds left in overtime period for 38-36 nod over West Lake.

March 4— With Irish leading by only two points, Accardo makes two free throws with 1:17 left and Embanato follows with free throw and field goal in final 30 seconds in 53-46 triumph over DeQuincy.

March 8— Irish run up 12-1 lead in early moments, Then with lead cut to three points, John Varino makes five of six free throws in final two minutes in 64-56 victory over Larose-Cutoff for state championship.

The final win was achieved under, to say the least, difficult conditions. The Irish were 300 miles from home and playing before a crowd at least 80 per cent Larose-Cutoff fans that spilled onto the court on practically all sides. To top it all off, the officials were 25 minutes late. The wait did nothing to lighten the tension.

But if anyone was affected by the circumstances, it wasn't St. Matthew's. The Irish were red hot in the first quarter and the home team ice cold.

Larose-Cutoff has very probably played better games than it did in the finals. This is taking nothing away from St. Matthew's. The Irish were definitely the best team on the floor and their rebounding and pass-stealing would have cooled off hotter teams than the Bulldogs. Also, St. Mary's, the only common opponent of the two finalists, beat Larose-Cutoff during the season by 18 points while losing to the Irish, 55-47.

Despite the crowded conditions at the final game, therethere was no trouble or hint of it. The fans, despite the crowding and the score, were unusually well-mannered and the treatment accorded the vistors was first class.

Getting back to the Irish, it's doubtful there are happier men in this world than St. Matthew's Coach Jim Mahoney. Mahoney has sweated over this bunch of kids for three years, he quarterbacked the school's promotion from class B to A and his elation is by no means dimmed by the fact that his boys won the state title a year earlier than he expected them to.

With four starters back, this club is going to be the favorite for the state crown next year although big Sam Marsala is going to be missed a lot more than many suspect. Marsala has made few headlines because he doesn't score much. He doesn't try. But as a rebounder and defensive man, he is equal if not the superior of Varino and his value cannot be measured in points.

Victor Zagone will probably move up to Marsala's spot next year. He's a good shooter and probably will score more points than Marsala but at 5-10, he is not going to be the board man Sam was. Which means more of the load is going to fall on Varino. With a year's experience and growth, the smooth Irish center should be able to shoulder the load. Varino is one of the best college prospects we have seen this year, not so much because he is good now—and he's very good—but because he has just begun to tap his potentalities.

Embanato, despite some faults, is one of the best high school backcourt men around. The speedy guard takes some bad shots and his passing is dangerous at times but he's tough to beat at ball-hawking and on the fast break.

Cohort Jim Calhoun has rated Biggar the most underrated player he's seen and we agree. He and Embanato are the core of the Irish fast break and he can bust the bottom out of the bucket all day from the corner.

Accardo has his limitations. He is not fast and he is not big. But when the chips are down, he comes through. Just look at the playoff record above. Accardo made seven of eight clutch free throws to help win two games. There are few rougher jobs in sports than free throws under pressure and Frankie hits them like he was the only guy in the gym.

So there you are, the class A champions of 1960. And if Mahoney can keep his boys from increasing their hat sizes, they could very well be state champions of 1961.

WOODARD HEADS LIST

Five Seniors Make All-District 6-B Club

By BILL CARTER
Alexandria Town Talk
(Written for La. Sports Writers Assoc.)

Five seniors representing five different schools make up the 1960 All-District 6-B basketball team selected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

Gerald Woodard, the Dry Prong great, heads the team which also includes Jimmy Bowen of Colfax, Leo Ladner of Forest Hill, John Leggett of Glenmora and F. M. Ryland of Lafargue.

Woodard, a 6-2 pivoter who averaged 30.2 points a game and led Dry Prong to the sectional round of the state playoffs, was named the outstanding player."

Named to the second team were Ronnie Paul of Dry Prong, Bascom Smith of Colfax, Millard Maricle of Plainview, Aubrey Gates of Pollock and Charles Sanchez of Lecompte.

The third team is composed of Larry Stickell of Boyce, Johnny Jones of Dry Prong, Charles Gordon and Parks Davis of Forest Hill and Dewitt Hatch of Plainview.

Largely because of Woodard, with his consistent scoring and strong rebounding, Dry Prong won the district championship and posted a 44-2 record. Dry Prong was regarded as the strongest team in Cenla, regardless of class.

The 17 - year - old Woodard pumped in 1,390 points, although he made no attempt to set individual highs. Neither was he intentionally fed by his teammates to run up his total.

As a rebounder, on either board, Woodard had few equals, despite his size. His ability to fake, drive and get in position for his soft shots can be credited with his success.

Bowen averaged 20.5 points a game, 964 points in 47 games, but was just as valuable to Colfax with his splendid defensive play and playmaking. Bowen's ability for pestering his opponents and executing steals was largely responsible for his scoring total and his team's surprising success. He is 5-11.

Ladner, a 6-1, 18-year-old, was regarded as the best on a well-balanced Forest Hill team. While he was not his team's leading scorer, averaging 10.9 points a game, Ladner was one of the better rebounders in Cenla.

Leggett, a 5-10 guard, averaged 23.1 points a game for Glenmora and was recognized as one of the top ball-handlers and playmakers in the area. Leggett also specialized in defense.

Ryland, a 6-1 forward - center, missed part of the season because of ailments, but still managed to score 350 points. Also a strong rebounder, Ryland had an average of 18 points a game for 31 contests.

Although his fine 1958-59 team was wrecked by graduation, Perilloux started a rebuilding program that netted Colfax the runnerup position in the district. Colfax also played second-fiddle to Plainview last year, but was the only team to beat the Hornets twice (in four games). Coltax was one of Cenla's best-coached and strongest teams at the season's end, but had the misfortune of being in the ame district with powerful Dry Prong.

FIRST TEAM

Gerald Woodard, Dry Prong, height 6-2, age 17, senior.
Jimmy Bowen, Colfax, 5-11, 18, senior.
Leo Ladner, Forest Hill, 6-1, 18, senior.

Ronnie Paul, Dry Prong; Bascom Smith, Colfax; Millard Maricle, Plainview; Aubrey Gates, Pollock; Charles Sanchez, Lecompeter.

Third Team

FEDERATION MEETING

Changes Rumored In Store For Wildlife Commission

By SAM HANNA
Staff Writer

LAFAYETTE, La. — Louisiana sportsmen opened the annual wildlife convention here Friday amid speculation that changes are in store under the Jimmie H. Davis administration.

While over 100 persons registered on opening day, rumors spread rapdly that a new director is being considered to manage the state wildlife department.

Reliable sources said definitely that four or five men are being considered for the directorship, including the present director, Rudolph Easterly.

It has been the custom in the past to change directors under a new governor. Davis takes office in May.

Between 200 and 300 sportsmen are expected to attend this three-day session, held each year by the Louisiana Wildlife Federation.

Northeast Louisiana is well represented with delegates present from Monroe, Bastrop, Oak Ridge and Tallulah. More are expected to arrive Saturday.

New officers will be elected before the convention adjourns Sunday afternoon while resolutions to prompt new wildlife policies will highlight the meeting.

The Federation's board met Friday afternoon shortly after the convention opened. The Louisiana Outdoor Writers Association will meet late Saturday to elect new officers and name Louisiana's outstanding conservationist.

E. R. McDonald Sr., a Newellton planter who is chairman of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, is scheduled to arrive Saturday, then address the convention on Sunday.

A Friday night panel was headed by Ernest F. Swift, executive director of the National Wildlife Federation, Walter Gresh, regional director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Richard H. Stroud, executive vice - president of Sport Fishing Institute, and Rep. J. Thomas Jewell, New Roads.

Lt. Gov.-elect C. C. (Taddy) Aycock will address the convention at a Saturday night banquet.

On hunting and fishing matters, resolutions will be brought before the convention for adoption. Each club will present a bundle of resolutions.

After adoption here the resolutions will be channeled to the Wildlife and Fisheries Commission for consideration.

Northeast Louisiana delegates include A. S. (Bud) Tidwell, Ouachita Wildlife Unit president, Jack Rushing, E. D. Elmore and A. B. Smith, all of the Ouachita unit, as well as Erle Barham, Oak Ridge, John Blanchard, Bastrop, and Jim Parker, Tallulah.

Tidwell, who presently serves as state vice president, has declined a nomination for the presidency.

ALL-AMERICAN CAGER

Moreland Tops Tech Statistics

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Jack Moreland, Louisiana Tech's fabulous 6-6 center who landed a spot on UPI's small - college All-American basketball team for the second straight season, topped the Bulldogs in a number of statistical departments this winter.

Although injured twice during the season and out of action for six tilts, the Minden cager still led the Techmen in both total points and average per game. Final statistics on the 1959 - 60 season show that Moreland also racked up five individual single-game records.

Moreland led the Gulf States Conference with his scoring average of 18.1 points per game. He tossed in a total of 361 markers for the season.

The big center also topped the Bulldogs in rebounds, nosing out teammates Joe Daigle, 301 to 300. Moreland averaged 15.1 rebounds per contest while Daigle is credited with 11.5 a tilt.

Forward Ray Germany was Tech's second best in point-making last season. The Holly Ridge senior popped the nets for 12.1 per game. Daigle hit an even 10 points a battle.

Moreland also sank the most free throws for the season (97) but Germany had the best free throw percentage, making 72 of 87 for 82.8 per cent. Moreland hit 9.5 per cent from the foul line.

Three Techmen averaged above 40 per cent on field goals made. Forward J. W. Mercer hit on 35 of 78 attempted for 44.9 per cent. Not far behind was center Ron Futrell with 44.7 per cent on 77 made of 172 attempted. Daigle shot 42.5 with his 93 put in out of 219 attempted.

Moreland also led the team in total fielders with his 132 and Germany was next with 121. Moreland hit 39. per cent and Germany 39.9 from the field.

Moreland walked off with five individual single - game highs. The Minden cager hit 41 points against Arkansas Tech to lead the team in single - game scoring. He also topped the Canines in field goals for one tussle (15 against Arkansas Tech), in free throws attempted (16 against McNeese), in free throws made (13 against McNeese), and in rebounds (26 against Southwest Texas State).

Final NAIA statistics list Tech as 18th in the country on team defense, Germany as 27th in free throw percentage and Moreland as 26th in the nation on individual rebounding. NCAB also has Tech as 16th in the country among small colleges in rebound percentage and 18th in team defense.

Tech completed the season with a 17-9 won - loss record. The Bulldogs took third in the Gulf States Conference race with a 6-4 mark.

Final cage ratings by United Press International listed the Techmen as 11th in the nation in the small college division. Dick Dunkel's final rating had the Techmen as the 15th best small college outfit in the country.

Northeast To Defend Title In Southwest Meet Today

Northeast's record-bent thinclads encounter a major roadblock in their surge as a national power today when the Indians defend their meet championship in the annual star-studded Southwest Recreation Track and Field Meet at Fort Worth, Tex.

Coach Lew Hartzog's Tribesmen, who annexed the title last year by edging East Texas State in the final event, will be facing much of the same opposition again today — with a lot of new faces added.

East Texas, one of the better track schools in college competition over the past few years, will rate as one of the pre - meet choices. The Lions have all but two men back from last year's runnerup squad and have added eight promising newcomers.

From all indications, it stacks up as a two-way duel between Northeast and East Texas for top honors with Texas A&I, Howard Payne, Lamar Tech and McMurry battling for third place.

Coach Hartzog, anticipating a near - repeat of last year's classic, said "Without a doubt, we'll be facing our toughest competition of the year among college opponents."

The Indian mile relay foursome of Dave Styron, Jim Mouser, Dick Hays and Don Styron, provided a dramatic finish in the 1959 meet to enable Northeast to take a narrow 54-53 team victory.

With the Indians trailing by four points going into the final event, the quartet took first place while East Texas was finishing fourth to account for the winning margin.

Heading the 12-man Northeast aggregation will be the record - setting Styron twins. The versatile pair will probably be among the meet's busiest competitors, entering nine of the 14 events.

Don Styron, defending champion in both hurdle races, will again compete in the highs and lows, the 440-yard and mile relay teams and the 440-yard open dash for the first time.

Brother Dave, who ran the 100-yard dash in 9.4 seconds last year, has been tabbed for the century and 220-yard dashes, the broad jump, the high jump and the 440-yard and mile relays.

Northeast is strong in the sprint departments, but the Texans are also strongest in that category. In Sidney Gartin, the Lions have one of the top sprinters in the nation. A sophomore, Gartin is the NAIA 220 champion and has run the distance in 19.6 seconds — the fastest time ever recorded regardless of wind. He also holds a 9.4 clocking in the 100-yard dash.

Teaming with Garton in the 100 and 220 for the Lions will be Ronny Montgomery and John West, while Roger Beumer, who has stepped off the 60-yard dash in 6.4, will join Styron for the Indians.

The mile run shapes up as a three - man duel, with Northeast sophomore Buddy Eiland, East Texas' Hike Van der Wal and Lamar Tech's Jan Stewart trying for the first shot at the tape. Stewart won the event in the Border Olympics last weekend with a 4:13.7 while Van der Wal was seconds behind. Eiland has been clocked in 4:15.

Freshman John Pennel, who has topped 14 feet this year, will be Northeast's chief contender in the pole vault, while transfer Hoy Rogers will be a top threat in both the shot put and the discus.

James Copeland and Jerry Dyes are other Tribesmen entered in the shot and discus while Casey Boyett will join Pennel in the vault.

Dave Styron and Dyes will oppose East Texas' James Baird in the broad jump and high jump. The NAIA champ, Baird has bettered 25 feet several times.

Competing for Northeast in the hurdles along with Don Styron will be Randall Walker and Dick Hays, the squad's lone senior.

The Styrons, Mouser and Hays will enter both the 440-yard and mile relays.

With competition "the stiffest of the year," Hartzog feels the Indians' chances depend to a great extent on their ability to take runnerup places in the events in which East Texas is strong.

Northeast's two opening meets have been almost warmup affairs. In the Coliseum Relays at Montgomery, Ala., the Redskins more than doubled second - place Kentucky in point production and last week grabbed 15 first places in downing McNeese.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Mrs. Hillman Madison Honored At Bridge Party

Mrs. James Padgett and Mrs. John R. Cole entertained jointly at a bridge party and luncheon complimentary to Mrs. Hillman Madison, who with Mr. Madison and their two children, Sarah Ellis and Webb, have recently moved to Monroe, on Thursday from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Spring flowers brightened the Padgett home on Auburn Avenue, where the event was held. Guests were greeted by the guest of honor and her hostesses in the living room, where a dried arrangement of wine colored flowers and pink variegated carnations were mixed with eucalyptus leaves in a pink pottery container on the bookcase.

For the occasion, the honoree wore a black and white checked wool dress fashioned with a fitted bodice, a slightly flared skirt, and three - quarter length sleeves. At the neckline was a white satin ascot.

Invited to play bridge and for a visit with Mrs. Madison were Mrs. Ralph B. King Jr., Mrs. Wesley S. Shafto Jr., Mrs. J. L. Adams III, Mrs. Joseph Ledoux, Mrs. Bachman Lee, Mrs. Jack I. Graham, Mrs. Edel Blanks Jr., Mrs. Lamar Buffington.

Mrs. Harvey Marcoux, Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Charles Fasterling, Mrs. Henry H. Davis Jr., Mrs. Ed Miller, Mrs. Ginger Stevens, and Mrs. Dan Cox.

Mrs. Matteson Honored Guest At Luncheons

Mrs. Dorothy Hudson Matteson of Garden City, New York, who has been visiting in Monroe with her brother and sister - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Hudson, was entertained Tuesday at noon by Mrs. Guy Stubbs with a festive Mexican luncheon.

Red, white, and green were used throughout the Stubbs home, where the event was held, and guests ate from Mexican pottery on white woven place mats. Centering the table was an oval mirror on which stood brass scales banked by gaily colored fruit. Tiny fruit, mostly grapes, and flowers and greenery surrounded the scales.

With each course was a small favor from Mexico. One such favor was a woven basket filled with candy, pecans, and pralines.

Mrs. Matteson was presented with a huge basket of pecans, gaily wrapped with bright - colored ribbon. Eight relatives and close friends of the honoree attended the party.

Another compliment to Mrs. Matteson was a small luncheon hosted by Mrs. Henry Bernstein Sr. on Wednesday of last week.

White and red camellias brightened the luncheon table at the Lotus Club, where eight friends were invited to visit with the guest of honor.

New Members Initiated Into Rainbow Club

Assembly No. 54, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, initiated six new members at the Masonic hall on Monday evening. They were Sharon Stall, Sandra Kester, Jackie Kester, Ann Roberts, Linda Jo Wilson and Janice Wheelington.

Mrs. Ethyl Kester, mother advisor, and the rainbow girls served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Guests attending the initiation and social hour were members of Guiding Star Chapter No. 66, O.E.S., and Masons. Approximately thirty guests were there.

BEFORE OR AFTER FIVE, choose the important costume look. The buttoned cardigan is made of woven cotton in a dramatic kind of houndstooth check. Under it, a fluid crepe dress with a jewel neckline and cap sleeve.

Questions And Answers Guide For Homemakers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q.—I would like wedgewood blue walls in my living room, except that, even with three windows, the room always seems dark. Would it be better to use yellow and have blue on furniture? I have a sofa and wing chair and two maple chairs with seat cushions. Tables are maple and lamps are brass. What colors for walls, furniture and rugs?

A.—I agree that yellow would be the wiser choice for walls. A plain or tweedy fabric in blue on sofa and wing chair. For draperies use a print in blue and white. This same fabric could be used for chair seat cushions. A blue and white tweedy rug. Accessories of wedgewood for flower vases, ashtrays, etc. introduce more blue.

Q.—I would like your advice as to color for two matching chairs in my living room. Have soft gray rug, turquoise sofa and walls. Fireplace wall is white. Two white alabaster lamps and one large Oriental urn lamp in gray and tangerine. I have a large red lacquered Chinese cabinet with black stand. I need new draperies and would like a scenic. Do you approve?

A.—If your chairs are not too large, pick up the tangerine of your lamps; it would be wonderful with the lacquered cabinet. You might have very small pillows. I would advise against the scenic draperies. Use instead a light gray or turquoise.

Q.—I am compelled to use slipcovers and want them to be attractive as possible. I have gold walls, cocoa rug, print draperies and mahogany tables. What colors for sofa, fireside chairs, and club chairs.

A.—Choose a light gold for sofa and club chairs. Fireside chairs in a pale clear pink. Accessorize with pillows and ashtrays in hot pink, gold and pink.

Q.—Please advise me on color for my kitchen. I have dark green seats and backs on chromium kitchen set. I have wood grain cabinets. What colors for walls, floor and cabinets above sink? I do not wish to repeat the wood color on the upper cabinets.

A.—Use restful flattering greens, yellows and beiges. Paint walls, ceiling and cabinets a light beige. Floor in a dark green. Curtains in a print of green leaves on a white ground. Then for the very necessary small kitchen items select yellows and greens. If you have room for it have a small potted herb garden to enhance the look of the outdoors in your kitchen.

Mrs. Stoddard Hostess To Garden Club

The home of Mrs. John Stoddard on Glenmar was the setting on Friday of last week when members of La Petite Maison Garden Club held their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Lester High, president, called the meeting to order and Mrs. John Lewis gave a demonstration in corsage making.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Louis Breard Jr., Mrs. Sylvester Breard, Mrs. Coy Casey, Mrs. Curtis Cook, Mrs. Robert Easterling, Mrs. Walter Ernest, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Ed Heard, Mrs. Jack Murphy, Mrs. Louis Ray, Mrs. Amos Smelser, Mrs. Malcolm Smith, Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr., and Mrs. Charles Wildsand.

Leftover roast pork in the refrigerator? Cut it into matchstick size pieces and add it to consomme with a halved peeled garlic clove; heat. Throw in some sprigs of watercress and continue just long enough to wilt the cress. Remove the garlic and serve this good soup as the first course for a Chinese supper menu.

Quick Tips To Fashion Smartness

United Press International

Jewelry makers copy the gypsy look for summer. Hoop earrings are in many cases three inches, in diameter. Festive drop earrings grow wider as they drop — almost down to the collar bone. Necklaces are 24 inches, and longer, strands of balls and chains. Some have red beads the size of little tomatoes, alternating with smaller gold balls.

Summer city clothes include suits with the sleeveless look; ensembles with short jackets or ¾ coats; belts, on some dresses, are low and skirts, pleated.

Not in many a season have there been so many silhouettes as there are for summer, 1960. They are: princess, long torso, tiers, tunics, gypsy flounce, bias cut, and slim.

Even casual shoes put on an air of sophistication this spring. The finished look of the new casual shoes begins with the closed tapered toe, continues through a variety of detailing and closures, reaching a high-or mid-point in smart heel shapes. Interesting leather treatments — punched, perforated and grained — add handsomeness to ease afoot.

For hot summer nights, lingerie and loungewear go bikini. The short-cut to sleeping comfort is seen in sleep sets made of cotton, cotton blends and softly patterned nylon georgette. Some show ruffle, button and bow touches.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Some Children Just Won't Drink Milk

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Let's face it. All children do not drink all the milk a parent might think is "good" for them. Some cannot because of allergies. Some simply don't want it and seem to dislike it. Let's allow children these diversities. They cannot all be crammed into the same mold of either diet, behavior or emotions.

Mrs. R.G. writes, "Dear Mrs. Eldred: I have a good-natured baby of five months, but she has me stumped. For the last two months she has been fighting her bottle. And she is getting worse. Some days I can only get eight to 10 ounces in her. I have tried cup feedings without success. She fights, twists, just doesn't want it.

"At birth she weighed six pounds, nine ounces, now she weighs 19 pounds, eight ounces, though she has lost a few ounces. At 6 a.m., she gets her bath and three tablespoons of dry cereal, one tablespoon of fruit and two ounces of milk. Then she naps.

ORANGE JUICE, VITAMINS

"At about 9 a.m. she gets her orange juice and vitamins.

"At around noon she has one-half jar of fruit, the same of vegetables and about three ounces of milk. Another nap.

"At 4 to 4:30 she gets the same as above and 3 ounces of milk and at 6 p.m. she goes to sleep and sleeps all night. She is never awake more than one or one and one-half hours and then she naps. Does she sleep more than the average?

"I have talked to two doctors about her. One says 'don't worry', the other said to take away all solid food until she drinks her milk. I did this for two days and she simply sucked her thumb and went to sleep. She has one tooth, sits up alone, can roll over."

ANSWER

She sleeps well. The amazing thing is that she has grown so rapidly on such a meager diet. Evidently she doesn't want milk, though I would examine the bottle nipples to be sure the milk is flowing fast enough to make taking it something less than arduous for the baby. If they drip too slowly, this could be the cause.

You can give her other foods containing protein; egg yolk, gelatines, custard, cottage cheese. You can add milk solids to the little milk she drinks and add it to other foods. You can cook the baby cereal in milk instead of water. If you take all of these measures I am sure, considering her splendid weight, her advanced development and her good-nature you can assume that she is getting all the milk she needs, if not all you'd like to see her take.

If you would like to have our 10-cent booklet "The First Six Months" send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Mix Costume Jewelry, Says This Expert

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Don't be stuffy and unimaginative about your jewelry wardrobe.

This advice comes from Joan Castle Joseff, who owns a jewelry rental service which supplies about 90 per cent of the pieces used in TV and movies.

Mix costume jewelry, such as gold, silver and platinum, Mrs. Joseff said. Combine antique and modern jewelry "as you would furniture in your home." Don't adhere to the rule of gold jewelry for daytime, diamonds for night.

If you must wear a watch at formal affairs, have one set in a diamond ring or a bracelet with a cover over the watch face.

"Pearls are unimaginative;" Mrs. Joseff added, "and school jewelry, such as a class ring, indicates an emotionally immature person. If you wear a class ring, you're hanging on the past or are afraid of the future."

Read Labels When Shopping

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — Grocery shopping without reading labels is like a game of pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey,say four Cornell University extension specialists.

There's a product for every purpose, family and budget, they explained. The printing on a box of detergent becomes more vital as more detergents and fabrics become available. Lower grade, second quality food, such as meat, often should be used instead of a higher grade. The price tag may not be a guide to actual cost, because it is more important to know the cost per serving than cost per can, package or pound.

YOUR PROBLEMS

She Wanted To Help, But They Slammed Door

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: At Christmas time we wanted to help a needy family. For our kindness we received a slap in the face. I've been fuming for months and decided to get your opinion.

This family lives a block away. There are six small children who always look ragged. The mother is a worn-out little thing and the father is a sergeant in the Marine Corps.

During the holidays I went over with some good used clothing and a carton of food. The door was almost slammed in my face. I was told they didn't need charity and to take the stuff to someone who could use it.

Do enlisted men get an allowance for each child? Do they get housing, medical care and a pension? If I had an idea of what this man earned I'd feel better. Can you help me or is this information secret?—WONDERING

Dear Wondering: I'm sure you meant well but next time check with a welfare agency and learn who needs help. Or give directly to the agency and let THEM distribute to the needy.

A Marine Corps sergeant with eight years of service gets $325.90 a month if he has two children. There is no extra allotment for additional children. The basic allowance for living quarters is $96.90 a month if there are more than two dependents. The sergeant and his family are entitled to SOME medical care, and there's a retirement plan after 20 years.

A Marine Sergeant with six kids may well be hard-pressed financially, but he can work out a loan at low interest with the help of a government agency.

Dear Ann: I met this man when I was a waitress at a very nice restaurant. I knew he was married but I didn't care. I had just been divorced and was lonesome. He said his wife was a nice person but not very good company.

He talked about divorcing his wife and marrying me but nothing ever came of it. We went together four years and I gave birth to a baby boy. The boy is now five years old and notices that he doesn't have a father. This man supports the child but he doesn't spend any time with us. I told the child he's my cousin.

Is there any legal action I can take to force a marriage? I'm beginning to think I was a little fool.—NO RING

Dear No Ring Well—comes the dawn! You weren't a LITTLE fool, you were a big one. The man is married and the law recognizes only one wife at a time. If he is supporting the child he is meeting his legal obligation.

DEAR ABBY

Mr. Webster's Meanings Not Always Meaningful

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from a father who said, regarding his retarded child, "I am proud that God singled me out to care for one of his exceptional children."

The fact that this father had found psychological adjustment for this tragedy is commendable, but I think "feeling proud" is carrying it to the extreme.

I object. Furthermore, I am much concerned about the increasing abuse and misuse of the word "exceptional" for the retarded child. It causes much confusion and unless checked will change the true meaning of the word.

EXCEPTIONAL as defined by Webster means, "uncommon, superior, extraordinary, remarkable." It implies something to be desired!

To try to confuse the retarded child, who is below normal in intelligence, with the truly exceptional child is not only ridiculous but dishonest.

Will you, Dear Abby, please help us preserve the true meanings of words and discontinue using the word EXCEPTIONAL when referring to the retarded child?

ENLIGHTENED

DEAR ENLIGHTENED: You rattled the wrong? cage! The feelings of one parent are more important to me than the "true meanings" of all the words in Webster's dictionary. Only the good Lord (and the parents themselves) know the chronic heartache endured by parents of retarded children. And if these parents derive the tiniest bit of comfort from using the word "exceptional" instead of retarded—who am I to object? And who are you?

DEAR ABBY: Our 14-year-old boy loves sports of all kinds. This year he made the freshman basketball team. His Dad and I go to all the games. His Dad was a very good athlete himself at one time so he gave the boy some helpful suggestions on what he was doing wrong. (He didn't do it in a rough or mean way to hurt him.)

Our son asked us to please not come to any more games. He says we make him nervous and he makes too many mistakes.

We are very put out and want to know if we should stay away or go anyway and explain that we are going because we are proud of him. WORRIED MOM

DEAR MOM: The boy is probably not playing as well as he could because he is self-conscious. Stay away. When he starts turning in performances of which HE is proud, he'll beg you to come.

DEAR ABBY: My son (he is 19) wants to bring his girl friend home from college some week-end. She will be staying two nights. Is it all right for her to stay at our home? We have a guest bedroom. My husband and I will be here at all times. Another thing, should my son pay for her bus ticket? They are not engaged and we have never met her. Rush your reply, please.

MOM IN DOUBT

DEAR MOM: Under the circumstances, it is proper for the girl to stay at your home. She should, however, buy her own bus ticket.

What's New For Use On Homefront

United Press International

A new vinyl-on-cork wall covering "heals itself" after repeated punctures. It was designed to meet home decorating and maintenance problems, particularly in the den, family room or child's room. One-half million square feet of the material already has been tested on classroom walls of several schools. It can take thumbtacks, nails, picture hooks — even a knife stab — and show no trace of the puncture after the instrument has been removed.

Plastic scrolls and other decorative ornaments perk up plain garage doors. The screw-on items come in white, but can be painted to blend or contrast with other colors.

A high visitility fluorescent spray enamel—in red and orange—makes a house number more obvious by day and night.

For patio roofs, outdoor planters, shoji screens, shower doors, room dividers, and tub enclosures, three are fiberglass panels in 19 decorator colors and six weights. The shatterproof and weatherproof panels don't warp, shrink, buckle or sag.

For cookouts comin' up, there's a portable lantern that stands alone on a table or can be mounted on a pole or bracket. The lamp burns for 50 hours on one can of fuel. It resists 100-mile winds and is smokeless and sootless.

Few Seconds Breathless For Pioneer

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—For a few agonizing seconds Friday it appeared that Pioneer V wouldn't get off the ground.

When the countdown reached zero, newsmen watching from a site a mile away looked for flame to burst from the base of the 90-foot Thor-Able launching rocket.

Five breathless seconds passed before the mighty engine roared to life and propelled the 90-pound instrument package on its historic flight into space.

Those five seconds seemed a lot longer to viewers on the press stand. The immediate reaction was that the missile's engine igniter had failed to work.

An official explained later that the brief delay in activating the igniter was planned to provide a last-second check for possible missile trouble. He said the countdown was perfect.

When success was announced, jubilation became the order of the day at the missile test center and at the nearby community of Cocoa Beach.

Residents of Cocoa Beach and other close-by towns take the missile business to heart, whether they're connected with it personally or not. A failure like the Atlas explosion last night seems to cast a pall over the community.

Beach watchers followed the Pioneer's brilliant exhaust for nearly three minutes before the first stage burned out. Observers at the press site were not so fortunate. Their view was obstructed by a cloud 70 seconds after liftoff.

The launching crew also did a little premature celebrating when radio signals shortly after launch indicated the rocket and payload were on their way.

"There was a lot of joking and back-slapping in the blockhouse," one observer reported.

The official word came shortly after 11 a.m.—three hours aft launch—from the National Aer nautics and Space Administrati in Washington.

The Friday lunch hour, whic usually starts early here anywa began even earlier. Restauran and bars, especially the latter, r ported numerous celebrators.

Many organizations connecte with the launching scheduled "vi tory" parties Friday night.

George S. Cherniak, Cape C naveral director of Space Tec nology Laboratories, which deve oped the payload, commente "We are obviously pleased wi the results at this time. Everyor on the ground did a splendid jo and their collective handiwor seems to be doing a comparabl job in space."

He speaks Moy's dialect and, by telephone, interpreted doctor's questions and father's answers. Ann's condition now is "much improved." (AP Wirephoto)

4 New Candidates Enter School Race

Ten men and a woman now are in the race for the five-member Monroe School Board. Four new candidates filed yesterday.

School system officials believe the old record for School Board candidates has been shattered.

Five days remain before the 5 p.m. filing deadline on March 18.

W. E. Whetstone, Ben Marshall, Gordon Cummings and Harry E. Greenwood filed as School Board candidates yesterday.

The day saw one other filing.

QUALIFIED

Dielhman C. Bernhardt qualified for re-election to the city Democratic Executive Committee.

Election day is May 14.

Already qualified for the school race are: Fensky C. Terzia Jr., J. Grayson Guthrie, T. H. Scott, William S. Gannaway, Mrs. Hazel Boies Garlington, Frank C. Breese Jr. and H. W. Griffin.

Gannaway, Scott and Guthrie are incumbents.

This is the first actual "contest" for city school board posts since 1952. In 1956, the entire Board named in 1952 ran without opposition and was re-elected.

Mrs. Anna Gray Noe and E. F. Jones are not seeking re-election.

Four men now are up for election to the Democratic Executive Committee: Harry Strong, incumbent chairman, incumbents Austin Miller Sr. and Bernhardt, and Tony Anzalone.

The mayor's race has three candidates: Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard, the Rev. Turner A. Davis Jr. and Rufus Ponsell.

Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez and Finance and Utilities Commissioner W. H. McSherry have no opposition yet.

Three Injured In Accident Near Monroe

Three persons were rushed to a local hospital last night about 7:30 p.m. following a head-on automobile collision 13 miles west of West Monroe on U. S. Highway 80. The extent of their injuries was not known late last night.

Five Monroe auto mishaps yesterday resulted in two other persons being hospitalized, bringing the area's total to five traffic injuries for the day.

Injured in the Highway 80 mishap were Mrs. Ann Parsons 34, of Somerville, New Jersey, and her son Valori, 12, in one car and Napoleon Butler, 50-year-old Ruston Negro, driver of the other vehicle.

REPORT

State police said according to witnesses, the Butler vehicle was traveling at a high rate of speed, when he threw on his brakes to avoid a collision with a line of cars in his lane.

They said his car skidded into the opposite lane, and crashed head-on into the auto driven by Mrs. Parsons.

According to investigators, Butler was traveling west, and the Parsons vehicle east on the highway.

A Monroe accident yesterday afternoon sent Joyce Clark, 17 of Olla, to a local hospital with minor injuries. She received first aid treatment and was released, according to hospital officials.

She received bruises and abrasions when the car she was driving was struck by an automobile drive by C. N. Summerfield, 19-year-old Negro of 1728 Adams street, at the intersection of Georgia and Pecan Streets in Monroe.

A Negro man, Jessie Williams, 38, 1521 Olive Street, Monroe, received first aid treatment for injuries received in a collision at the intersection of North 18th and Adams Streets.

Williams was riding in an automobile driven by Ivy Taylor, 52-year-old Sterlington Negro man. The Taylor auto struck a vehicle driven by Van Murphy, 36, of

Long Says Senators In Fighting Mood

WASHINGTON (Special)—Senator Russell Long of Louisiana, Friday predicted that unless the "gag rule" is imposed on southern senators, pro-civil rights liberals will have a tough time trying to "force through the kind of legislation they are pushing."

Long said he and his colleagues are "in a good fighting mood, and we will carry this fight for a long time to come."

He said his group is well organized and fully prepared to go back into 24-hour sessions, should continuous debate be resumed.

"My guess is that we can wear them (the northerners) out just as bad as they can wear us out, in fact more so, in these round-the-clock sessions," he asserted. "As a matter of fact, that ten and one-half hour speech I made the other day is just a warm-up speech. We just have a world of fight left in us."

RECEIVED

Long said he has received "a lot of encouragement from the people of Louisiana," in the form of telegrams and letters supporting his civil rights stand.

"The great experiment in integration in the schools in Washington, D.C., has worked out to give them a segregated school system," he asserted. "All the whites who are supposed to be in school with the colored children have moved out — practically all of them — into Maryland and Virginia."

Turning his attention to Cuba, Long recommended that the United States "impound the sugar quota that we allow Cuba under our sugar act," which he said is worth some $125 million a year to Cuba. He said Russia pays Cuba 2.9 cents a pound as compared with 5.5 cents paid by this country.

He said as a result of closing Freeport Sulphur's Moa Bay nickel plant in Cuba, people around Braithwaite, south of New Orleans, will be thrown out of work, since they were "processing this same ore which was mined and semi-processed in Cuba."

Long took another whack at the world court. He said both Russia and Poland have a judge on the court, though neither subscribes to it nor abides by the court's decisions.

THURBER SCORES

NEW YORK (AP) "A Thurber Carnival," a revue based on mostly previously published material by humorist - satirist James Thurber, received unanimous "yes" votes from the critics at its recent opening.

On the first weekend following the opening, boxoffice business was very brisk.

Atom Weapons

PARIS (AP)—Ninety professors of the Paris faculty of sciences have sent President Charles de Gaulle a letter urging that he drop the production of atomic weapons. De Gaulle should direct French atomic policy in a peaceful path, they contended, and not "sacrifice to the building of an unusable striking force the cultural, scientific, and economic development of the nation."

Derailment

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—The little blue and white train from Calalzo to this famous winter sports resort derailed Friday six miles from here. Two persons were killed and 40 others were injured, some badly. The two-coach electric train went off the rails at a sharp curve near the hamlet of Acquabona. The victims were a 36-year-old woman and a 15-year-old boy.

RECORD STEEL OUTPUT

The nation's steel mills produced 11,119,000 tons during February, a record for that month with operations running at 94.2 per cent of capacity, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported Friday.

CUBA TAKES OVER MILLS

The Cuban government took over control of three sugar mills and a railroad operated by the Guantanamo Sugar Co. valued at more than 10-million dollars. Meanwhile, confusion still surrounded the government's reported takeover of the big Freeport Sulphur Co's Moa Bay mining subsidiary. Freeport had issued a statement in New York saying the Cuban government had no plan to intervene in its operations.

CAR OUTPUT RISES

Ward's Automotive Reports said car output in the U.S. this week climbed 9 per cent higher than the week earlier when production was crippled by severe snowstorms. The agency said the industry will build an estimated 150,854 cars this week compared with 138,513 a week ago and 134,283 last year.

ANNOUNCE PRICE CHANGES

Petroleum refiners in the Southwest are boosting bulk gasoline prices by ¼ cent a gallon and trimming home heating oil prices by ¼ cent a gallon. The decline in home heating fuels is coming right after icy weather across the country and it follows a series of reductions during the main part of the heating season. Refiners reported that gasoline price hikes are not unusual for mid-March.

Late Rally Hikes Soybean, Wheat Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — A late rally boosted soybean and old crop wheat futures contracts well ahead Friday after the market had dawdled along for hours with trade virtually stalled.

Other grains ended mostly within small fractions of previous closes in draggy dealings. Trade volume probably was the smallest in several weeks.

Wheat finished 1¼ cents a bushel higher on the old crop months to ½ lower on the new, March $1.99⅜-½; corn unchanged to ½ lower, March $1.13¾; oats unchanged to ¼ higher, March 75 ½; rye ¼ higher to ¾ lower, March $1.20; soybeans ¼-⅞ higher, March $2.10⅞-11.

Butcher Hog Prices Slump

CHICAGO (AP) — Butcher hog prices slumped 25 to 75 cents a hundredweight Friday.

The $16.00 top, off 50 cents from Thursday's peak, was paid very sparingly. It went for only one small lot of closely sorted 200 lb No. 1 grade while the 190-220 lb No. 1 and mixed 1-2 grades cleared freely at $15.50-15.75 and heavier weights upward from $14.00. Sows were 25 cents lower and topped at $14.00.

Slaughter steers and heifers were steady. Good and low choice steers moved at $26.00 - 26.50, standard to good $12.50-25.50 and the good and choice heifers at $25.50-26.25.

There were no bulls on sale. A few good heifers sold up to $30.00.

Sheep market sales were insufficient to establish a trend.

WALL STREET VIEWS

Hectic Week Leaves Chaos

NEW YORK (AP) — Experts on Wall Street were far from agreement Friday on the outlook for the stock market after a hectic week of ups and downs.

Some think the recovery is likely to continue, others believe the long decline isn't over, and still others are of the opinion that the market is going to mill around.

At the moment, it seems just a case of take your pick.

Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. said he doesn't view the market's action as an end of the temporary rally because Wednesday's advance was an exceptionally sharp one and was bound to attract a measure of selling.
